SENATE BILL 215
Suggested Amendments

196.637 Deferred payment agreements. If a public utility and a customer enter into a deferred payment agreement regarding a delinquent account, the public utility may not report the delinquency to a credit reporting agency unless the customer fails to comply with the agreement.

A public utility may report a customer's outstanding current balance to a credit reporting agency. If the outstanding current balance is reported, the public utility shall also report the customer's current payment as having been timely made unless the customer has failed to comply with the deferred payment agreement.

If a public utility reports a delinquency in error, it shall correct the error within 30 days of notice of such error, and the public utility shall not be subject to a fine or forfeiture unless it fails to correct the error within 30 days of notice of such error.
