Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the department of natural resources (DNR) may give away fish and game carcasses that DNR has seized in enforcing the fish and game laws to food pantries and similar food distribution services. Otherwise, no person may sell or give away meat from wild animals killed by hunters except under very limited circumstances. This bill creates another exception to this general prohibition for persons who receive wild animal carcasses for processing (processors) from customers who then fail to pick up the product after the carcasses are processed. Under this bill, these processors may destroy or donate a carcass to a charitable organization after processing the carcass if the customer fails to respond to a notice sent by the processor that states the customer must claim the carcass within five days following the postmarked date of the notice.

This bill creates an income tax and franchise tax credit for processors that destroy or donate a carcass that a person does not pick up after processing. Sole proprietorships and corporations may claim the credit. Partnerships, limited liability companies, and tax-option corporations compute the credit but pass it on to the partners, members, and shareholders in proportion to their ownership interests. The credit is an amount equal to the total cost of processing and storing the carcass.

If the credit claimed by a business exceeds the business' tax liability, the state will not issue a refund check, but the business may carry forward any remaining credit to subsequent taxable years.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:
