Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, banks, credit unions, savings banks, and savings and loan associations (financial institutions) are authorized to operate customer bank communications terminals, remote service units, or remote terminals, commonly referred to as automatic teller machines (ATMs). Financial institutions are required to make their ATMs available for use, on a nondiscriminatory basis, upon request by another financial institution or by customers designated by a financial institution using the terminal, subject to joint rules established by the division of savings and loan, the division of banking, and the office of credit unions in the department of financial institutions.

This bill requires these joint rules to prohibit a state, national, or federal financial institution from charging a person a fee for a transaction using an ATM, unless the transaction relates to or affects an account held by that person with that financial institution.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
