6 181.1106 (6) of the statutes; relating to: general measures affecting the
7 governance and operations of business associations.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill makes numerous changes to the laws that affect the governance and operations of business associations. The changes include all of the following:

1. Under current law, the fee for filing articles of incorporation with the department of financial institutions is one cent for each authorized share of capital stock, except that the minimum fee is $90, and the maximum fee may not exceed $10,000. This bill changes the fee to $130 plus an additional one cent for each authorized share of capital stock over one million shares, except that the maximum fee may not exceed $10,000.

2. This bill authorizes the board of directors of a business corporation to increase or decrease the number of shares of any class or series of stock. In addition, the bill provides that any shares of stock that are eliminated from a series resume the status that the shares had prior to the adoption of any resolution by the board of directors that changed their status.

3. The bill establishes a procedure for the conduct of shareholder meetings. Under the bill, unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, at each shareholder meeting a chairperson is required to preside. The chairperson is to be appointed as provided in the bylaws or, if the bylaws do not provide for his or her appointment, by the board of directors of the corporation. The chairperson is required to determine the order of business and may establish rules for the conduct of the meeting. Under the bill, the chairperson must announce at the meeting when the polls have closed for each matter at the meeting on which there is a vote. If there is no announcement, the polls shall be considered closed on final adjournment of the meeting. After the polls are closed, no ballot, proxy, vote, or any revocation or change to any ballot, proxy, or vote may be accepted.

4. Under current law, unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, the board of directors may create any number of committees, appoint members of the board to serve on the committees, and designate other members of the board of directors to serve as alternates. Currently, each committee must have two or more members. This bill provides that each committee must have one or more members.

5. Under current law, to the extent provided in the articles of incorporation or bylaws, any committee created by the board of directors may exercise the authority of the board of directors with certain exceptions. This bill provides that no committee may approve, adopt, or recommend to shareholders any action or matter that is expressly required by this chapter to be submitted to shareholders for approval, or adopt, amend, or repeal any bylaw.

6. Under current laws affecting business combinations, one of the conditions that may be met to permit a resident domestic corporation to engage in a business combination with an interested shareholder is that the board of directors of the resident domestic corporation has approved, before the interested stockholder's stock acquisition date, the purchase of stock made by the interested stockholder on that stock acquisition date. Currently, "stock acquisition date," with respect to any person, is defined as "the date that that person first becomes an interested stockholder of that resident domestic corporation." This bill changes the definition to mean "the time that the person first becomes an interested stockholder of that resident domestic corporation." The result of this change is that the board may approve the purchase of stock on the same day that the person first becomes an interested stockholder of that resident domestic corporation.

7. Under current laws affecting business combinations, a shareholder may dissent from certain corporate actions and obtain "fair value" for his or her shares in the corporation. This bill provides that where a corporation's shares are traded on a national securities exchange or quoted on the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., automated quotations system, the mechanism for determining "fair value" is the public market.

8. Under current laws affecting the merger of corporations, shareholders must generally approve the plan of merger. An exception under current law, however, provides that a parent corporation owning at least 90% of the outstanding shares of each class of a subsidiary corporation may merge the subsidiary into itself without approval of the shareholders of the parent or subsidiary corporation. This bill permits such a parent corporation to merge itself into a subsidiary corporation without approval of the shareholders of the parent or subsidiary corporation.

9. Under current law, unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation of a resident domestic corporation, the voting power of shares of a resident domestic corporation held by any person in excess of 20% of the voting power in the election of directors is limited to 10% of the full voting power of those shares. This bill provides also that unless otherwise approved by the board of directors of a resident domestic corporation, the voting power of shares of a resident domestic corporation held by any person in excess of 20% of the voting power in the election of directors is limited to 10% of the full voting power of those shares.

10. Current law affecting business corporations authorizes mergers between business corporations but not between business corporations and other kinds of organizations. This bill permits mergers among domestic and foreign business corporations, domestic and foreign nonstock corporations, domestic and foreign limited liability companies, and domestic and foreign limited partnerships.

11. Finally, the bill reduces the maximum amount of filing fees paid by any person, other than an investment company, for articles of incorporation, amended articles of incorporation, restated articles of incorporation, articles of merger, and articles of share exchange from $10,000 to $5,000.
