

DRAFTER'S NOTE
FROM THE
LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE BUREAU

LRB-2505/3dn
RJM:wlj:jf

October 4, 2001

Please note that I did not include any of the requested information in the analysis. Background information of the type you requested is usually not appropriate for an LRB analysis, which generally discusses current law and the change to current law proposed by the bill. (The primary exception to this practice is an analysis for a uniform law requested by the national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws.) Background information is useful to the legislative process but is more appropriately supplied by the advocates or opponents of a particular proposal.

With regard to the potential Equal Protection violation, I understand your position but do not think it negates the issue.

If you have any questions or desire any further changes, please feel free to call.
