Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Assembly Bill 742 creates a program of temporary supplemental unemployment insurance benefits beginning in March 2002 and ending in December 2002. As such, it does not have an annualized fiscal impact. Moreover, temporary supplemental benefits would not be paid to individuals once they become eligible for any existing or future federal programs extending benefits to those who have exhausted what is available under regular programs. Based on prior experience with extended benefits programs in early periods of higher expenditure and the anticipated cost of regular unemployment insurance under the official forecast currently being used by the state in its revenue projections, it is assumed that this temporary program would provide approximately $109.3 million in additional unemployment insurance benefits to eligible workers in Wisconsin. The cost would be less if a federal program becomes available. It is estimated that the cost to local governmental employers would be $2,179,000 and the cost to the state government would be $858,000. These costs would also be less if a federal program is enacted.
