Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the department of regulation and licensing (DORL) regulates boxing and sparring exhibitions. With certain exceptions, a club may not conduct a boxing or sparring exhibition without a license or permit granted by DORL. Current law also allows DORL to license matchmakers, managers, referees, examining physicians, boxers, seconds, and trainers. In addition, current law imposes various requirements on the conduct of a boxing or sparring exhibition, including limiting the number of rounds, specifying the weight of gloves, and requiring examination of contestants by licensed physicians. Current law exempts certain amateur boxing and sparring exhibitions from all of the foregoing requirements. If not exempt, amateur boxing and sparring is subject to the requirements.

This bill exempts all amateur boxing contests from the foregoing requirements. The bill defines “amateur boxing contest” as a boxing contest in which none of the boxers are compensated for participating in the contest. Under the bill, a person may conduct an amateur boxing contest in this state only if the contest is sanctioned by and conducted under the rules of the national governing body for amateur boxing that is recognized by the United States Olympic Committee. Except for this requirement, DORL's authority under the bill is limited to regulating and licensing a “professional boxing contest,” which the bill defines as a boxing contest in which one or more of the boxers is compensated for participating in the contest.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
