1 AN ACT to create 895.78 of the statutes; relating to: eliminating recovery for persons injured while involved in a felony.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Currently, if a person is injured, he or she may recover from another person if the negligence of the other person caused the injury and exceeds his or her negligence. The finder of fact makes the decision as to the amount of negligence attributable to each party.

This bill prevents a person from recovering damages for any injury that he or she incurs or from his or her death if the injury or death resulted from his or her act that is a felony and he or she is convicted of a felony for that act regardless of cause of the injury or negligence of the parties. However, the bill does allow recovery, subject to the findings as to causation and negligence, if the device that causes the injury or death was used to provide security and was intended or likely to cause great bodily harm or death.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

3 SECTION 1. 895.78 of the statutes is created to read:
895.78 Limiting felon's right to damages. (1) No person may recover damages for an injury to real or personal property if the injury was incurred while committing, or as a result of committing, an act that constituted a felony and the person was convicted of a felony for that act.

(2) No person may recover damages for death or for personal injury if the injury or death was incurred while committing, or as a result of committing, an act that constituted a felony and the person was convicted of a felony for that act.

(3) This section does not prohibit a person from recovering damages for death or personal injury resulting from a device used to provide security that is intended or likely to cause great bodily harm, as defined in s. 939.22 (14), or death.
