Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the State Historical Society of Wisconsin (Historical Society) operates certain historic sites known as Stonefield Village, Pendarvis, Villa Louis, Old Wade House, Madeline Island, Old World Wisconsin, H.H. Bennett Studios, and the First Capitol (historic sites). This bill makes the following changes with respect to the operation of those historic sites:

1. The bill requires the Department of Employment Relations to study the practices of the Historical Society relating to the hiring, classification, and compensation of the employees, both permanent and limited-term, who staff the historic sites and to recommend changes in those practices to reflect the seasonal nature of the work at the historic sites. The bill specifies that those changes may include the establishment of a separate classification and pay schedule for seasonal employees employed at the historic sites.

SENATE BILL 201

2. The bill establishes a separate nonlapsible trust fund designated as the history preservation partnership trust fund consisting of all moneys received from admission, sales, and other receipts of the Historical Society, which may be expended only for the general program operations of the Historical Society.

3. The bill permits the Historical Society to organize and maintain, for each historic site, a nonstock, nonprofit corporation for the purposes of soliciting contributions, gifts, grants, and bequests for the historic site for which the corporation is organized and maintained, providing goods or services relating to that historic site, and providing support for the operation, management, and development of that historic site. The bill requires the Historical Society to organize such a corporation so that contributions to the corporation will be deductible from gross income under the Internal Revenue Code and so that the corporation will be exempt from taxation under that code.

The bill also permits the Historical Society to enter into a contract with a corporation organized for those purposes setting forth the methods by which the Historical Society and the corporation will cooperate to accomplish those purposes. Such a contract shall provide that any contributions, gifts, grants, and bequests accepted by the corporation, and any moneys received by the corporation for any goods or services provided by the corporation, that are not retained by the corporation shall be deposited in the history preservation partnership fund, and that any contribution, gift, grant, bequest or other moneys so deposited shall be used exclusively, in accordance with the wishes of the donor, for the operation, management, and development of the historic site for which the corporation was organized.

In addition, the bill permits the Historical Society to sell memberships in a corporation organized for those purposes and requires the Historical Society to transfer all moneys received from the sale of those memberships to the corporation for which the membership was sold.

4. The bill permits the Historical Society and the Department of Tourism to enter into a memorandum of understanding setting forth the responsibilities of that department relating to promoting and marketing the historic sites and the methods that the Historical Society and that department will use to cooperate in promoting and marketing the historic sites.

5. The bill permits the Department of Administration to conduct, in cooperation with the Historical Society, a survey of the condition of the facilities and infrastructure of the historic sites and of the Circus World Museum, which is a museum owned by the Historical Society but operated under a lease agreement with the Circus World Museum Foundation, Inc., and to prepare, in cooperation with the Historical Society, a needs assessment for those facilities and that infrastructure that includes a master plan for each of the historic sites and the Circus World Museum designed to achieve a healthy and sustainable historic site system.

6. The bill creates a program, to be known as the “History Preservation Partnership Initiative,” for the purpose of providing financial support to attract private and federal funds to acquire, construct, develop, enlarge, and improve facilities for collections care, public programs, and visitor services at the historic sites, at the Circus World Museum, and at the headquarters of the Historical Society. The bill also creates an appropriation to the Building Commission to finance projects under that initiative, but does not authorize the state to contract any public debt for that purpose.

7. The bill requires the director of the Historical Society to include in the biennial report that the director is required to submit to the governor and the legislature information regarding revenues and expenditures for each historic site and the condition of the historic sites. Current law requires the director to submit an annual report of that information to the Joint Committee on Finance.

8. The bill permits the Historical Society, subject to authorization by the legislature or the Joint Committee on Finance, to employ outside the classified service sales and development professionals to engage in activities intended to generate admission, sales, and other receipts for the historic sites and to solicit contributions, gifts, grants, and bequests in support of the historic sites. The bill also permits the Historical Society to provide a compensation plan for those professionals under which those professionals are compensated, in whole or in part, through commissions and bonuses.

Finally, current law permits the Historical Society to contract with the Wisconsin History Foundation, Inc., for the purpose of administering the historical society's membership program. This bill permits the Historical Society to contract with the Wisconsin Historical Foundation, Inc., or any other nonprofit corporation for the purposes of administering the Historical Society's membership program, soliciting and accepting contributions, gifts, grants, and bequests for the Historical Society, marketing the historical society's goods and services, providing support for the operation, management, and development of the Historical Society's programs, and performing other functions approved by the board of curators of the Historical Society.
