Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This resolution makes the following changes to the senate rules:

Election and term of senate officers

This resolution provides that the senate shall elect, by roll call vote, rather than designate, one of its members to serve as president and elect, by roll call vote, one to serve as president pro tempore. The resolution also provides that the president, president pro tempore, chief clerk, and sergeant at arms shall serve for the biennial session unless separated by death, resignation, or removal by the adoption of a resolution by a majority of the current membership.

Standardized terminology

The resolution standardizes the use of “session” to specify when it means daily session, when it means biennial session, and when it means that a house is sitting in session. The resolution also standardizes the use of “day” to specify when it means roll call day, when it means legislative day, when it means business day, when it means working day, and when it means day.

Appointment of conference committee

The resolution authorizes the president, rather than the chairperson of the committee on senate organization, to appoint senate members of a conference committee.

Conference committee reports

The resolution provides that questions of conference committee reports may be placed on the table, but may not be referred to committee.

Tabling of certain motions

The resolution provides that a motion to adjourn, to adjourn to a fixed time, to take a recess, to lay on the table, to take from the table, to place a call, to raise a call, to grant a leave, to suspend the rules, or to reconsider a nondebatable question or a call for the current or previous question, may not be placed on the table.

Special sessions

Under the current rule for special sessions, a senate proposal may not be considered unless it is germane to the subjects enumerated by the governor in the proclamation calling the special session or to the subjects enumerated by the committees on organization or in the joint resolution calling the extended or extraordinary session. This resolution, instead, provides that a senate proposal, or amendment, may not be considered unless it accomplishes the special purposes for which the special session was convened or the business specified in the action authorizing the extended floorperiod or extraordinary session.

Under the current rule for special sessions, a senate proposal may not be considered unless it is recommended to be introduced or offered by the committee on senate organization or by the joint committee on employment relations. This resolution provides that a senate proposal may also be considered if it is recommended by the senate committee on finance, the joint committee on finance, or the joint committee on legislative organization.

Journal of proceedings

The senate chief clerk currently is required to prepare and transmit for reproduction the senate's journal of proceedings after the close of each daily session and, if so directed by the president of the senate or chairperson of the committee on senate organization, on any nonsession day. This resolution requires the chief clerk to record official actions such as introductions and referrals, including those that occur on nonsession days, in the next published journal. The resolution also requires the chief clerk to announce these actions on the next session day under an appropriate order of business.

Currently, the rules require the chief clerk to record amendments at the end of each day's journal. This resolution deletes that requirement and, as a result, provides the chief clerk with discretion to record amendments in the journal in a location designated by the chief clerk.

Time limits for debate

Currently, time limits and schedules for debate may be designated by the committee on senate organization or, if that committee does not object, by agreement of the majority leader and minority leader. This resolution also permits the presiding officer to designate time limits and schedules for debate, if the majority leader or minority leader does not object.

Timeliness of motions to withdraw from committee

Currently, if a committee hearing is scheduled, a motion to withdraw a matter from the committee may not take effect during the week in which the committee hearing is scheduled. This resolution provides, instead, that a motion to withdraw from committee may not take effect during the 7 days preceding any scheduled committee hearing or the 7 days following the date on which a committee hearing is held.

Germaneness

The senate rules currently specify that the following amendments, among others, are not germane: 1) an amendment repealing a section amended by the original proposal or amending a section repealed by the original proposal, except to change the effective date; and 2) an amendment striking out all new material in the original proposal. The senate rules also specify that the following amendments, among others, are germane: 1) an amendment restoring a proposal to its original form or an amendment adding new statutory material on the same subject and with the same purpose to a proposal amending or restoring material stricken by a previous amendment; 2) an amendment relating only to detail; 3) an amendment proposing the use of a different committee to make an investigation, limitations on the effective date, the number of members on a board, or new material added which does not affect the subject or purpose; 4) an amendment to a revision bill; and 5) an amendment to a revisor's revision or correction bill, if the amendment makes corrections and does not add new substantive material. In addition, the senate rules also provide that an amendment to a joint resolution approving an amendment to the federal constitution is not in order. This resolution repeals these provisions.
