Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING BY LOCAL GOVERNMENTAL UNITS

Under the current law popularly known as the “Smart Growth” statute, if a local governmental unit (city, village, town, county, or regional planning commission) creates a comprehensive plan (a zoning development plan or a zoning master plan) or amends an existing comprehensive plan, the plan must contain certain planning elements. The required planning elements include the following: housing; transportation; utilities and community facilities; agricultural, natural, and cultural resources; economic development; and land use.

Beginning on January 1, 2010, under Smart Growth, any program or action of a local governmental unit that affects land use must be consistent with that local governmental unit’s comprehensive plan. The actions to which this requirement applies include zoning ordinances, municipal incorporation procedures, annexation procedures, agricultural preservation plans, and impact fee ordinances. Also beginning on January 1, 2010, under Smart Growth, if a local governmental unit engages in any program or action that affects land use, the comprehensive plan must contain at least all of the required planning elements.

Before the plan may take effect, however, a local governmental unit must comply with a number of requirements, such as adopting written procedures that are designed to foster public participation in the preparation of the plan.

Under this substitute amendment, in general, before the plan may take effect, a local governmental unit must provide written notice to all owners of property and leaseholders who request to be notified and who have an interest in property pursuant to which the persons may extract nonmetallic mineral resources, and must create written procedures that describe the methods the local governmental unit will use to distribute elements of a comprehensive plan to owners of property, and to other persons who have certain leasehold mining interests in, such property, in which the allowable use or intensity of use of the property is changed by the comprehensive plan. If a local governmental unit fails to provide such notice, a plan may still take effect unless the failure to notify is intentional.

FEES IMPOSED BY POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS

Under current law, cities, villages, towns, and counties (political subdivisions) provide various services for which those political subdivisions may impose a fee. This substitute amendment requires that any fee imposed by a political subdivision bear a reasonable relationship to the service for which the fee is imposed.
