Subject: RE: we need to decide who will draft which resolution and joint resolution needed for the beginning of session looks like a plan to me: Joe with the session schedule and Rick with the other three. you guys decides how you want one, two, or three initials on them. I don't feel like I need to have mine on them but I will if you think that helps the two of you gain creditability

I can start on the session schedule draft. Rob and I both worked on it last session, so the process should be at least somewhat familiar to me. If you want, Rick, we can get together to discuss the changes once I get the organizational tasks out-of-the way. I'm also available to help with the first three.

I can certainly do the first three; I'm happy to do the harder one too, but I'm out of the office next week at NCSL. If it's OK that I do it later in Sept. I'll do that one too. Who is the requester on these?

Subject: we need to decide who will draft which resolution and joint resolution needed for the beginning of session we need to decide who will draft which resolution and joint resolution needed for the beginning of session. I have no problem having my initials last or not on these drafts.

They are:

Assembly organization: a request for an assembly resolution needs to be entered and a /P1 created by running the redraft maker on 2003 AR 1 (03-1051/1).

Assembly committee structure changes (senate committees are created by leaders): a request for an assembly resolution needs to be entered and a /P1 created by running the redraft maker on 2003 AR 2 (03-1106/1).

Senate organization: a request for a senate resolution needs to be entered and a /P1 created by running the redraft maker on 2003 SR 1 (03-1050/1).

these three are easy

Session schedule: a request for a senate joint resolution needs to be entered and a /P1 created by running the redraft maker on 2003 SJR 1 (03-1262/3)

A long detailed dnote based on the dnote in the file for 2003 SJR1 needs to be created. The /P2 draft is the same as the enrolled final session schedule update to fit with this year's days/dates. (moved a few dates earlier or later to match up with the Tuesday-Thursday floorperiods) . The dnote has to identify the holidays and religious days so leaders can decide how to structure the floorperiods. The drafter(s) of this one need to review the drafting file of the last or the last two session schedules carefully to be able to include the important information in the dnote (look at the last or first pages of your desk calendar and the web). Quite often, the LRB has presented the information visually on a calendar. See the drafting file.

This one is time consuming.
