24  FREE TRADE AGREEMENT UNTIL THE UNITED STATES HAS A GREATER UNDERSTANDING OF

1    THE IMPACTS OF THE NORTH AMERICAN FREE TRADE AGREEMENT AND THE WORLD TRADE

2    ORGANIZATION.

3        (a) 1.  The United States of America has always been the world leader in 4    promoting free trade, which is the hallmark of our capitalistic society.

5        2.  Free trade only thrives when there is a level playing field of government

6    regulation between trading partners.

7        3.  The 1993 North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) was supposed to 8    bring additional prosperity to the United States and level the playing field with 9    Canada and Mexico, perpetuating free trade between our nations.

10        4.  Notwithstanding the good intentions of NAFTA, our nation has suffered the 11    loss of almost 900,000 jobs due to NAFTA, many of them in the manufacturing sector.

12        5.  The United States has gone from a trade surplus with Mexico prior to NAFTA

13    to a substantial trade deficit.

14        6.  The United States is a current member of the World Trade Organization

15    (WTO), which has been called "The United Nations of World Trade".

16        7.  The United States consistently bows to the wishes of the WTO, allowing an 17    international governing body to dictate what our laws should be.

18        8.  Both the WTO and NAFTA, through the use of trade tribunals, now claim

19    sovereign authority to overrule decisions of American courts and make awards to 20    foreign businesses for violations of trade agreements.

21        9.  Both the WTO and NAFTA shift power away from state and local

22    governments towards international trade tribunals operating under international 23    law, instead of domestic statutory or constitutional law.

24        10.  The National Conference of State Legislatures has taken a very strong

25    position against preemption of state and local laws by trade agreements as stated in

1    http://www.ncsl.org/statefed/econdev.htm#freetrade: "NCSL also believes that these

2    agreements to liberalize the world trading and investment system can and must be

3    harmonized with traditional American values of constitutional federalism. In 4    particular, NCSL recognizes that reservations can be made to trade and investment

5    agreements that limit the unnecessary preemption of state law and that preserve the 6    authority of state legislatures. Implementing legislation for trade and investment

7    agreements also can and should be crafted to include protections for our

8    constitutional system of federalism. ... Therefore, reservations must be made to 9    trade and investment agreements to 'carve out' state laws that might otherwise be

10    subject to challenge. Particular care must be exercised to ensure that state tax laws

11    and revenue systems are not subject to unjustified challenge under international

12    agreements. Provisions must also be made in federal implementing legislation that 13    commit the federal government to protect state lawmaking authority when it is 14    exercised in conformity with accepted U.S. constitutional principles of 15    nondiscrimination against foreign commerce.".

16    11. The League of Wisconsin Municipalities has taken a strong position against 17    the preemption of local government actions and laws as stated in 18    http://www.lwm–info.org/legislative/resolutions/2003.html. The League:

19    "1. Urges the President and members of Congress to oppose the FTAA and the 20    GATS, and any other international agreements that:

21    "a. include regulatory expropriation or investor–to–state dispute resolution

22    clauses like the NAFTA provisions that corporations have used to challenge

23    legitimate local government actions;

24    "b. allow unelected trade bureaucrats to declare legitimate health, safety,

25    environmental, or consumer protection standards to be "barriers to trade;"

1     "c. lead to significant losses of family–supporting jobs, and their replacement

2     with low–paying, no–benefit, non–union service jobs;

3     "d. do not protect workers' right to organize in all signatory countries;

4     "e. could be used to force preemption of local rule, local control and home rule;

5     or

6     "f. give more rights to major corporations while limiting the ability of local

7     communities to pursue goals like environmental protection, public health, and 8     economic development.".

9     12. Faith informs perspectives on CAFTA, says The SHARE Foundation at 10     http://www.share–elsalvador.org/cafta/faith_perspecive.htm. It reports that the 11     Bishops' Secretariat of Central America (SEDAC) and the Chairmen of the Domestic

12     and International Policy Committees of the United States Conference of Catholic

13     Bishops (USCCB) issued a Joint Statement Concerning the U.S.–Central American

14     Free Trade Agreement (US–CAFTA) at 15     http://www.wola.org/economic/cafa_c_a_bishops_statement.htm, which includes:

16     "According to our pastoral vision, which is inspired by the Gospel and the 17     Church's social teaching, the human person must be at the center of all economic 18     activity. Free trade agreements, such as CAFTA, should be a way of achieving 19     authentic human development that upholds basic values such as human dignity,

20     solidarity and subsidiarity. Whether such treaties are ethical or not depends on how 21     these values are pursued.

22     "We believe that in an increasingly interdependent world, it is essential that

23     economic globalization be made more human by globalizing solidarity among people

24     everywhere. If this is not done, then, as Pope John Paul II has said, 'the poorest

25     appear to have little hope' (Ecclesia de Eucharistia, 20). Indeed, 'if globalization is

1    ruled merely by the laws of the market applied to suit the powerful, the consequences

2    cannot but be negative' (Ecclesia in America, 20).

3      "Taking into consideration the concerns of the poor – who make up the majority

4    of the people in Central America – and before any possible ratification of the 5    US–CAFTA takes place by the national legislative bodies, we respectfully request:

6      "1. That the Free Trade Agreement should contribute to sustainable human

7    development, especially among the poorest and most vulnerable sectors. This agenda

8    should include adequate financial resources that will enable the countries of Central

9    America to invest not only in their trade capacity, but in social and human 10    development.

11      "2. That the countries' governments take as much time as necessary to provide 12    adequate information and foster broad debate about the content and impact of the 13    Free Trade Agreement that will serve as the basis for discussion in our respective 14    legislatures.

15      "3. The moral measure of any trade agreement should be how it affects the 16    lives and dignity of poor families and vulnerable workers whose voice should receive 17    special attention in this discussion.".

18      13. A number of Protestant Churches have taken a position similar to those 19    bishops, stressing:

20      "Any trade agreement should preserve government authority to regulate 21    foreign investment in order to achieve national sustainable development policies.

22    Governments should be able to establish performance requirements in order to 23    support an emerging productive sector or meet community development plans.

24    Equally, governments should be able to impose capital controls to protect their 25    economies and citizens from destructive flows of speculative investment.

1     "The rights established under international human, labor and environmental

2     agreements and conventions should take precedence over investor rights. The

3     Investor–State clause in NAFTA, the U.S.–Chile FTA and the proposed Free Trade

4     Area of the Americas (FTAA) grants foreign investors the right to sue governments

5     for compensation over public–interest laws that could undermine their potential

6     profits. Alarmingly, 27 cases have been brought under NAFTA, many against local

7     environmental laws. This provision has also been used to threaten governments

8     considering new laws or regulations for public health and safety. Any trade

9     agreement should reject investor–to–state lawsuits and require foreign investors to 10     work within the laws and court systems of the host country. Disputes between 11     countries should be resolved in an accountable and transparent manner, and with 12     the participation of all affected parties."

13     (http://www.mcc.org/us/globalization/viewpoints/cafta.html).

14     And similarly, "Scripture addresses many unjust economic practices,

15     including monopolistic greed that deprives people of their homes and livelihoods

16     (Isaiah 5:8) and exploitation of workers (James 5:4). CAFTA gives every indication

17     of promoting these terrible injustices. In a Pastoral Letter of the Council of Churches

18     of Latin America: Nicaragua, Costa Rica & Panama, Central American church

19     leaders express opposition to CAFTA, because it is "incompatible with human 20     development." "Every human institution," they go on to say, "should be for the 21     development of life ... "

22     (http://capwiz.com/churchworld/issues/alert/?alertid=7535196&type=CO).

23     14. The United States is considering entering into the Central America Free

24     Trade Agreement (CAFTA) in 2005.

1     15. Based upon the experience that the United States has had with NAFTA and

2     the WTO, United States membership in the planned CAFTA would increase the 3     exodus of manufacturing from Wisconsin and the United States to other countries.

4     (b) The legislature of the state of Wisconsin respectfully but firmly urges all

5     members of the United States Congress to vote "no" on any agreement for the United 6     States to enter into the CAFTA at this time.

7     (c) The legislature of the state of Wisconsin urges the United States Congress

8     to not enter into the CAFTA until the United States has a greater understanding of 9     the impacts of NAFTA and the WTO.

10     (d) The senate chief clerk shall transmit a copy of this subsection to the majority

11     leader of the United States senate, the speaker of the house of representatives of the
