Jeff,

I need to have an amendment drafted for AB 105, which is on the floor today.

What I want to do is add language that gives some definition to what a "cost-benefit" analysis is.

Maybe this could be in a separate "definitions" section, or however it works best.

The language is attached. If you have problems or concerns please call my office or Denise Solie at 608-239-6754.

for contractual services

"Cost-Benefit Analysis" means a study to identify and compare the total cost, quality, and timeliness of a service performed by state employees and resources with the total cost, quality, and timeliness of the same service obtained by contract. The calculation of the cost of a service obtained by contract shall include the contract cost and all costs directly related to administration, management, and oversight of the contract. The calculation of the cost of performing the service by state employees and resources shall include at least all wages, benefits, equipment, and overhead.

Representative Gottlieb:

Frequently, state agencies contract for contractual services because they require a service to be performed that they have never performed in-house and do not have the in-house capability to perform. In such a situation, it may be unreasonably expensive or unworkable to create an in-house capability. The type of analysis required by this amendment will not be possible to perform in this situation.
