1 AN ACT to amend 125.01, 125.25 (1), 125.26 (1), 125.28 (1), 125.29 (3), 125.30 (1), 2 125.31 (2) and (3) (intro.) and 125.33 (11) (a); and to create 125.34 of the
3 statutes; relating to: the sale and distribution of fermented malt beverages.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, alcohol beverages are generally distributed from the manufacturer to the consumer under a three-tier distribution system: the manufacturer sells to a wholesaler; the wholesaler sells to a retailer or another wholesaler; and the retailer sells to the consumer. Current law generally prohibits a person from selling alcohol beverages unless the seller possesses a license or permit authorizing the sale.

With respect to fermented malt beverages (beer), a brewer's permit authorizes the brewer to manufacture, possess, and store beer on the brewery premises. An out-of-state shipper's permit authorizes the out-of-state shipper to ship beer into this state but only to a beer wholesaler.

A beer wholesaler's license authorizes the license holder to sell to retailers or wholesalers beer in original packages that may not be consumed on or about the wholesaler's premises. A brewer may hold a wholesaler's license and, if the brewer is a licensed wholesaler, may transport beer between the brewery premises and the brewer's wholesale premises and may sell beer to a wholesaler or retailer. A beer wholesaler may not receive beer directly shipped from outside this state unless the shipper holds an out-of-state shipper's permit. All beer shipments to a wholesaler in this state, whether shipped to the wholesaler from inside this state or from outside this state, must be unloaded in and distributed from the wholesaler's warehouse in this state. Current law provides beer wholesalers with certain protections against termination of brand distribution rights within their distribution territory.

Under current law, a brewer may hold a Class "A" retail license (authorizing the retail sale of beer in original packages for consumption off the licensed premises) but, with exceptions, may not hold a Class "B" license (authorizing the retail sale of beer for consumption on or off the premises where sold). One exception allows a brewer to maintain and operate, and hold a Class "B" license for, one retail premises on brewery premises and one retail premises on property owned by the brewer or its subsidiary or affiliate. With exceptions, a brewer may not hold both a wholesaler's license and retail license. As of May 5, 1994, a beer wholesaler may not be issued a Class "A" license or a Class "B" license or permit, but a wholesaler holding these licenses before that date may, with certain exceptions, continue to operate under each of these licenses.

Current law also provides for the issuance of alcohol beverage warehouse permits that authorize the holder to store and warehouse alcohol beverages in warehouse premises covered by the permit, but does not authorize sales of alcohol beverages.

Under this bill, beer may not be sold, transported, or delivered to a retailer unless the beer is first unloaded at and distributed from a wholesaler's warehouse premises for which a wholesaler's license (including a wholesaler's license issued to a brewer) and an alcohol beverage warehouse permit are issued, which premises must be in this state and must be, with two exceptions, be a physically separate location from any retail premises or brewery premises. Under one exception, a brewer that manufactures less than 100,000 barrels of beer in a calendar year may maintain a wholesale premises on its brewery premises if the brewer does not, from these wholesale premises, sell or ship to retailers more than 30,000 barrels of fermented malt beverages in any calendar year. Under the other exception, a brewer may be issued a wholesaler's license for wholesale premises located on brewery premises if, from these wholesale premises, the brewer sells or ships beer only to other wholesalers.

The bill also prohibits a wholesaler (including a brewer or out-of-state shipper that holds a wholesaler's license) from selling, transporting, or delivering any brand of beer unless the wholesaler has entered into a written agreement with the brewer or out-of-state shipper supplying the brand that grants to the wholesaler distribution rights for the brand and precisely identifies the designated sales territory for which such distribution rights are granted. A brewer or out-of-state shipper may not, in any such agreement, grant to more than one wholesaler distribution rights for the same brand in the same designated sales territory. Within a wholesaler's designated sales territory for any brand, the wholesaler may not refuse to sell the brand, or refuse to offer reasonable service related to the sale of the brand, to any retailer. With specified exceptions, the bill prohibits a wholesaler from selling, transporting, or delivering, or causing to be sold, transported, or delivered, any brand of beer outside the wholesaler's designated sales territory.

ASSEMBLY BILL 787

The bill requires deliveries of beer to retailers to be made only by wholesalers and requires deliveries to retailers to be made only at their retail premises. A retailer may not transport beer from one retail premises to another retail premises for purposes of selling the beer at the other retail premises unless both retail premises are operated by a brewer holding the retail licenses.

The bill specifies that, with exceptions, a brewer or out-of-state shipper may sell, transport, and deliver beer only to a wholesaler and that the brewer or out-of-state shipper itself may be that wholesaler if, in its activities as a wholesaler, it complies with the requirements under the bill. However, a brewer or out-of-state shipper authorized to sell beer at retail may do so in accordance with applicable provisions of current law, and distribution by a brewer holding a retail license of beer sold at retail by that brewer is not subject to the requirements under the bill. Also, a brewer that holds an out-of-state shipper's permit for premises located in another state used for the manufacture of beer may ship beer from those premises to any brewery premises of the brewer in this state.
