Mary,

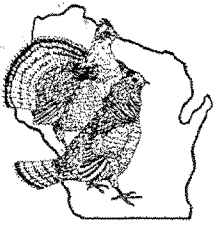

Representative Gunderson would like legislation drafted, which would eliminate the current requirement that individuals hunting for raccoon, coyote, and other authorized species at night at times authorized by the DNR during a firearm season for deer, have to wear blaze orange. The area of statutes we'd like changed is 29.301 (2). I am including a copy of a letter from the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation, which also gives a little background on this issue. Also, when this bill is completed and jacketed, Sen. Leibham would like a companion bill for the Senate. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at 266-3363.

Thanks,

Michael Bruhn

Dear Senator Leibham and Representative Gunderson:

Thank you for expressing an interest in introducing legislation eliminating the current requirement that individuals hunting for raccoon, coyote and other authorized species at night at times authorized by DNR during a firearm season for deer, have to wear blaze orange.

Once again, just a bit of background. In the past the state only had a nine-day gun deer season. Eventually because of the high deer population, other permanent gun deer seasons were established. During the standard nine-day gun deer season starting the Saturday before Thanksgiving, night hunting for raccoons and other species was and still is prohibited. When the other extended gun deer seasons were created however it was agreed that there would not be a prohibition for hunting other species at night during those seasons so as not to adversely affect the opportunity to hunt for those species.

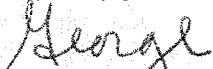

The problem arose however, because, pursuant to section 29.301 (2), Wis. Stats., any hunter hunting during a gun deer season, except for a waterfowl hunter, must wear blaze orange. Obviously blaze orange does not work at night and never has been used during the night hunting of raccoon, coyote and other authorized species. This was never an issue when there was just the traditional nine-day gun deer season since other night forms of hunting were prohibited. However now the law requires the wearing of blaze orange at night for these types of hunting during the extended gun deer seasons. Everyone that we have talked to including the DNR and the Natural Resources Board understands the lack of need for this requirement. To be candid, most raccoon, coyote and other authorized hunters hunting at night during these seasons probably do not even realize that they are violating the law by not wearing blaze orange at night. Several organizations including the Manitowoc County Fish and Game Protection Association and the Wisconsin Coon Hunters Association have asked that this meaningless requirement be removed from the books thereby removing their members from the potential of being cited for a violation. As I indicated, DNR agrees with this change and has been directed by the Natural Resources Board to support such a change.

I have attached a copy of current section 29.301 (2) with an added sentence, which solves the problem.

Thank you for agreeing to take the leadership in addressing this issue.

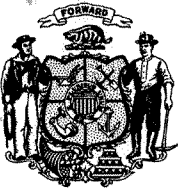

Very truly yours,

George E. Meyer
Executive Director

29.301(2)

(2) Color of clothing. In the areas in which there is a season for the hunting of deer with firearms, no person may hunt any game except waterfowl during that season unless at least 50% of each article of the person's outer clothing above the waist, including a cap, hat or other head covering, is of a highly visible color commonly referred to as hunter orange, blaze orange, fluorescent orange, flame orange or fluorescent blaze orange. Any person violating this subsection shall forfeit not more than $10. This requirement does not apply to persons hunting at night during firearm deer seasons for other game species authorized by the Department to be hunted during such seasons.
