2 (2) (k) of the statutes; relating to: sexual abuse of children placed in substitute
3 care and providing a penalty.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law prohibits having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child who is under the age of 16. A person who violates that prohibition is guilty of a Class C felony, which is punishable by a fine of not more than $100,000 or a term of imprisonment of up to 40 years (which, as in other cases, includes a term of confinement and a term of extended supervision if the sentence is for more than one year) or both. Current law separately prohibits having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child who is under the age of 13. A person who violates that prohibition is guilty of a Class B felony, which is punishable by a term of imprisonment of up to 60 years. Current law also contains prohibitions relating to having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child that apply only to certain persons. First, current law prohibits incest (which covers a person marrying or having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child who is more closely related to the person than a second cousin) and makes it a Class C felony. Second, a school staff member may not have sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a 16-year-old or 17-year-old student who is enrolled in the school district in which the staff member works. A violation of that prohibition is a Class H felony, which is punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000 or a term of imprisonment of up to six years or both.

ASSEMBLY BILL 511

Current law also prohibits an employee of an adult family home, a community-based residential facility, an inpatient health care facility, or a state treatment facility, or an employee of or a volunteer at a jail or a juvenile or adult correctional or detention facility from having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child or an adult who is a patient, resident, or inmate at that facility. A person who violates that prohibition is guilty of a Class C felony.

This bill prohibits a person from having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child for whom the person is a foster parent or treatment foster parent. It also prohibits a person from having sexual contact or sexual intercourse with a child who is placed at a shelter, a group home, or a residential care center for children and youth if the person works or volunteers at that facility or is directly or indirectly responsible for managing it. A person who violates one of these prohibitions is guilty of a Class C felony.

Because this bill creates a new crime or revises a penalty for an existing crime, the Joint Review Committee on Criminal Penalties may be requested to prepare a report concerning the proposed penalty and the costs or savings that are likely to result if the bill is enacted.
