The structure of it would really need to be established in this bill, but it would allow flexibility to determine funding as part of the next budget cycle.

Yes, please. Is there an advantage to creating this now verses in a future budget process? Just curious.

Eric,

I believe the best way to approach the funding issues we have discussed would be to simply create new appropriations specific to the WAA. At the present, I could easily set up the shell for the WAA funding, including a ch. 20 schedule with no amounts entered, and then down the line you could decide on funding and easily plug amounts into it. I believe this would maximize options re funding in the future and preserve structure of the bill as much as possible. This change would be in addition to the funding source language added to the business plan.

I could probably get you a draft of this today so you can see what it looks like, if you want to see it. Would this work for you (or do you want to see what it will look like)? Aaron

Mc w/ Eric

- add to business plan: include feasibility study of proposed funding sources for capital expenditures
- doesn't net capital expenditures from same app'n as for airports
