Description Authorized emergency vehicles operated by law enforcement officers

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

AB-978 amends s.346.03(3) to allow police vehicles to have a blue light, a white light and a red light in combination which are flashing, oscillating or rotating (blue lights and red lights for police vehicles are currently provided for in s.346.03(3)). Because the bill does not require law enforcement agencies to have a white light in combination with red and blue lights, the costs would be strictly discretionary by those agencies that would choose to purchase them. The State Patrol would likely not choose to purchase white lights for their vehicles. Therefore, the bill would primarily affect local law enforcement agencies. However, the number of local agencies that would choose to use these lighting combinations is unknown.

The bill also amends 347.25(1s) to allow a vehicle, in use by the state or a political subdivision as a command post at the site of an emergency, to use a green light that is flashing, oscillating or rotating. Again, because the law does not require these vehicles to have green lights, the costs to purchase them would be strictly discretionary by the agency who chose to purchase them. No costs are anticipated by the State Patrol to purchase green lights.
