Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law requires the Dentistry Examining Board (board) to establish, by rule, standards and educational requirements (in addition to the education required for licensure to practice dentistry) that must be met by a dentist to be permitted to induce general anesthesia or conscious sedation in connection with the practice of dentistry.

This bill prohibits the board from promulgating a rule that does any of the following: 1) prohibits a dentist from administering a dose of an oral medication to induce conscious sedation that exceeds the maximum recommended dose; or 2) prohibits a dentist who has administered such a medication from administering a subsequent dose unless a period of time sufficient for the medication to reach its peak plasma has elapsed.

This bill is introduced as required by s. 227.26 (2) (f), stats., in support of the action of the Joint Committee for Review of Administrative Rules in suspending section DE 11.09 (7), Wis. Adm. Code, on April 18, 2006. The suspended rule provided that a dentist may not exceed the maximum recommended dose of an oral medication and may not administer a subsequent dose unless the time between doses equals or exceeds the time necessary for the medication to reach its peak plasma level.
