Analysis by the Legislative Reference BureauCREATION AND DISSOLUTION OF A DISTRICT

This bill authorizes one or more municipalities (cities, villages, or towns), one or more counties, or any combination of political subdivisions (municipalities or counties) to create a local park district (district). A district is a local unit of government that is a body corporate and politic and that is separate and distinct from, and independent of, the state and the sponsoring political subdivisions which created it and that are within its jurisdiction.

Subject to a number of conditions, a district may be created by one of two methods. Under both methods, an election of the district's commissioners must take place. Under the first method, the governing bodies of one or more political subdivisions may adopt an enabling resolution that declares the need for establishing the district and contains a description of the boundaries of the proposed district. The participating counties or municipalities need not be contiguous. Each political subdivision that adopts a substantially similar enabling resolution within 90 days, beginning with the date of adoption of the first enabling resolution, may be part of the initial jurisdiction of a district.

SENATE BILL 248

Under the second method, a district consisting of one or more political subdivisions may be created by a petition and referendum. The petition may be circulated on or after January 1 of any year and may be filed no later than 5 p.m. on the third Tuesday in February. The petition must be filed in every political subdivision whose park facilities are proposed to be included in the district. If it is signed by at least 100 qualified electors residing in each political subdivision whose park facilities are proposed to be included in the district, a referendum is held at the next succeeding spring election. A district is then created with a jurisdiction that consists of each of the political subdivisions in which the referendum question is approved, except that no district may be created unless the referendum question is approved in at least one political subdivision.

Before a district may be created, the governing bodies of each of the involved political subdivisions must reach an agreement that includes a number of components, including a method to transfer title of the municipal or county park facilities to the district, a description of any encumbrances or restrictions that run with the land or facilities that are transferred, and a method to select an arbitrator who will decide certain issues that the relevant political subdivisions are unable to resolve. On the date that a district is created, which is always on a January 1 following the initially elected commissioners taking office, all assets and liabilities of the political subdivisions with respect to park and recreational functions become assets and liabilities of the district (except for certain pre-existing political subdivision debt related to park facilities and except for any political subdivision liabilities related to former employees who performed park and recreational functions and whose employment terminated before the district's creation), all tangible personal property of the political subdivisions related to park and recreational functions is transferred to the district, and all incumbent employees of the political subdivisions having functions related to parks and recreation become employees of the district. To the extent allowed by law, transferred employees would retain their rights under their existing collective bargaining agreement. Upon the expiration of the agreement, the district and the employees would negotiate a new collective bargaining agreement.

In connection with park facilities, the powers of a district include the authority to: acquire, develop, maintain, improve, operate, and manage the park facilities; operate recreational facilities or programs; enter into contracts; employ personnel; impose an impact fee on developers for park facilities; issue debt for capital improvements to park facilities; and levy a property tax to carry out its functions. The bill authorizes a district to acquire land by purchase, exchange, or donation, but does not authorize a district to sell land. The bill also grants these districts eligibility for various local aid programs that are administered by the Department of Natural Resources. These programs include the local park aids program, the urban green space program, and funding for county snowmobile trails.

A district is governed by a commission consisting of members who are elected on a nonpartisan ballot at the spring election, except that, in an even-numbered year, if the governing bodies of the political subdivisions whose park facilities are included in a district can agree upon the organizing arrangements by June 1 following the adoption of resolutions or referenda questions approving the creation of a district, the initial commissioners are elected on a nonpartisan ballot at a special election that is held concurrently with the general (November) election in that year. In districts having a population of 500,000 or more, there must be nine commissioners who must be elected from election districts of equal population, insofar as practicable. In other districts, the enabling resolution or petition must specify the number of commissioners and whether the commissioners are to be elected from election districts, at large, or by a combination of methods. The boundaries of election districts are initially prescribed by the Government Accountability Board and thereafter decennially by the commission. Vacancies are filled by appointment of the remaining members of the commission. Each commissioner must, at the time of taking office, reside within the park district and within the election district, if any, from which he or she is elected or for which he or she is appointed to fill a vacancy. The terms of commissioners are three years, except that the initial terms are staggered such that the terms of approximately one-third of the initial members of the commission expire in each year, and except that the terms of any initial commissioners who are elected at the general election extend for five months longer than the terms of other initial commissioners.

Under the bill, if a city or village whose territory is in one district annexes territory that contains park facilities that are located in a different district, that district is required to transfer ownership of the park facilities that are located in the annexed territory to the district whose territory includes the annexing city or village. The bill requires the districts to negotiate a settlement to compensate the district from which the territory was annexed for the park facilities that were transferred. If the districts are unable to negotiate a settlement within 60 days after the annexation, the districts must agree on the selection of an arbitrator who will decide the settlement amount within 30 days after his or her appointment.

With the commission's approval, the initial jurisdiction of a district may be expanded to include any other political subdivision under procedures adopted by the commission. Any procedures for expansion must allow the governing body of a political subdivision to request inclusion in the district by resolution or at the request of electors through a petition and referendum procedure.

The bill also provides two methods for a political subdivision to withdraw from the district. Under the first method, if the governing body of a political subdivision adopts a resolution declaring its intention to withdraw from the district and the electors of the political subdivision approve the resolution in a referendum called for that purpose, the political subdivision may withdraw from the district. Under the second method, the electors of a political subdivision may petition the commission to submit the question of withdrawal of the political subdivision from a district, and the commission must then call a referendum in the political subdivision for the electors to vote on whether to approve the question. If the question submitted at the referendum is approved, the political subdivision must withdraw from the district. Under either method, however, the political subdivision and the district must negotiate a settlement to compensate the district for the park facilities that are located in the political subdivision. If the district and the political subdivision are unable to negotiate a settlement within 60 days after the political subdivision's resolution is either approved by the commission or approved in a referendum, the district and the political subdivision must agree on the selection of an arbitrator who must decide the settlement amount within 30 days after his or her appointment.

A district may dissolve by action of the commission, subject to payment of the district's debts and fulfillment of its other contractual obligations. If after withdrawal of a political subdivision, the territory that remains in the district does not consist of at least one political subdivision, the district must dissolve. If a district is dissolved, its assets, liabilities, employees, pending matters, and property must be apportioned to, and become the responsibility of, the sponsoring political subdivisions and any other political subdivisions that joined the district. The commission is empowered to apportion these items among the responsible political subdivisions. If a question arises as to the the commission's actions during dissolution, the question must be resolved by an arbitrator who is selected under the previously agreed to procedure.

Under the bill, a political subdivision may make loans or lease or transfer property to a district. Generally, however, a political subdivision may not create a park or expend any funds to support park or recreational facilities, or impose an impact fee on a developer for park facilities, after a district levies a property tax.

TAXATION

When a district is created, the initial property tax levy of the district must be imposed by the commission in an amount that equals the total operating levy, of all participating political subdivisions, that is attributable to expenditures for park and recreational purposes in the year in which the district is authorized, or in the prior year — whichever is greater. Also in the year in which the district's initial levy is imposed, each sponsoring political subdivision must reduce its operating levy in an amount equal to its previous year's levy for park and recreational purposes, to the extent that those functions have been assumed by the district. The district's property tax levy rate may not exceed one mill on each dollar of the full value of taxable property in the district. Unless approved by the electors of a district at a referendum. The district must hold such a referendum at the first spring primary, spring election, September primary, general election, or special election held throughout the district that is held at least 45 days after the date on which the commission adopts a resolution to increase the levy rate in excess of one mill. The district may use the tax revenue only for park and recreational purposes.

Under the bill, a district's income is exempt from the income tax, a district's property is exempt from the property tax, property transferred to a district is exempt from the real estate transfer fee, and sales of tangible personal property or services to the district are exempt from all state and local sales taxes and use taxes.

Because this bill relates to an exemption from state or local taxes, it may be referred to the Joint Survey Committee on Tax Exemptions for a report to be printed as an appendix to the bill.
