Current law allows only local governmental units to receive state invasive species grants under s. 23.22 (2) (c), Wis. Stats., for the control of aquatic invasive species. This proposal would also allow nonprofit conservation organizations and qualified lake associations to receive state grants for the control of aquatic invasive species.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) administers a financial assistance program under which it awards cost-sharing grants for projects to control invasive species that cause economic or environmental harm or harm to human health. Under current law, the amount of a grant may not exceed 50 percent of the cost of the project. This bill raises this cap to 75 percent.

Not Under current law, DNR must promulgate rules for determining eligible grant projects and grant recipients for this program. This bill requires that the eligible recipients include nonprofit conservation organizations and inland lake associations that meet certain requirements. The requirements that these lake associations must meet to receive these invasive species grants are the same as those required for inland lake associations under current law to receive cost-sharing grants related to lake management. These requirements include being incorporated, having at least 25 members, and allowing individuals who reside within one mile of the inland lake to be members.
