Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Currently, each of the following federal and state government officers receives one hardbound set of each edition of the Wisconsin Statutes: each member and member-elect of Congress from this state, each state senator, and each representative to the assembly. Currently, each of the following local government officers receives one softbound set of each edition of the Wisconsin Statutes: each county board chairperson, each county clerk, each city clerk, each town clerk, each village clerk, each sheriff, each county corporation counsel, each register of deeds, each coroner or medical examiner, each county treasurer, each county surveyor, each county human services or social services department director, and each county veterans' service officer. The distribution is paid for by the agency that publishes the publication (in this case, the legislature).

This bill deletes the automatic distribution of the Wisconsin Statutes to each of the above officers but provides that any of the officers may still receive a set of any
