Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Consequences for failure to act within time period

Under current law, certain actions in a proceeding under the Children’s Code, such as a child in need of protection or services (CHIPS) proceeding or a termination of parental rights (TPR) proceeding, must take place within certain time limits. For example, the intake worker of the court assigned to exercise jurisdiction under the Children's Code (juvenile court) must request that a CHIPS petition be filed, enter into an informal disposition, which is a written agreement under which the child and his or her parent, guardian, and legal custodian agree to meet certain obligations, or close the case within 40 days after the receipt of information that a child should be referred to the juvenile court. Similarly, the district attorney or corporation counsel must file a CHIPS petition, close the case, or refer the case back to the intake worker within 20 days after receiving the intake worker's recommendation regarding the case. Currently, if those time limits are not met, the juvenile court must dismiss the case with prejudice, that is, without leave to file a new petition.

In addition, in a CHIPS proceeding, a plea hearing must take place no later than 30 days after the filing of the petition (ten days for a child held in secure custody), a fact-finding hearing must take place no later than 30 days after the plea hearing (20 days for a child held in secure custody), a dispositional hearing must take place no later than 30 days after the fact-finding hearing (ten days for a child held in secure custody), and a hearing on an extension of a dispositional order must take place no later than 30 days after the expiration of the order. Similarly, in a TPR proceeding, a plea hearing must take place no later than 30 days after the petition is filed, a fact-finding hearing must take place no later than 45 days after the plea hearing, and a dispositional hearing must take place no later than 45 days after the fact-finding hearing. If the required action does not take place within any of those time periods, the juvenile court loses competency to exercise jurisdiction and, therefore, must dismiss the proceeding.

In a proceeding under the Juvenile Justice Code, for example, a delinquency proceeding or a proceeding for a juvenile in need of protection or services, failure to comply with a time limit does not require dismissal of the petition with prejudice or deprive the juvenile court of competency to exercise jurisdiction. Instead, if a party does not comply with a time limit specified in the Juvenile Justice Code, the juvenile court may grant a continuance for good cause shown, dismiss the petition with or without prejudice, release the juvenile from secure or nonsecure custody or from the terms of a custody order, or grant any other relief that the juvenile court considers appropriate. Moreover, the Juvenile Justice Code specifies that failure to object if a time limit is not met waives that time limit. The Wisconsin Supreme Court, however, recently held, in State v. Michael S., Jr., 2005 WI 82, 282 Wis. 2d 1, that these provisions do not apply to the expiration of a dispositional order because the expiration of a dispositional order is not a "time limit" under the Juvenile Justice Code.

This bill provides that failure by the juvenile court or a party to act within a time period specified in the Children's Code or the Juvenile Justice Code does not require dismissal of a petition with prejudice or deprive the juvenile court of competency to exercise jurisdiction. Also, under the bill, failure to object to a period or delay or continuance in a proceeding under the Children's Code or the Juvenile Justice Code waives any challenge to the juvenile court's competency to act during the period of the delay or continuance. Finally, under the bill, if the juvenile court or a party fails to act within a time period specified in the Children’s Code or the Juvenile Justice Code, the juvenile court may grant a continuance for good cause shown, dismiss the petition (with or without prejudice under the Juvenile Justice Code, without prejudice under the Children’s Code), release the child from secure or nonsecure custody or from the terms of a custody order, or grant any other relief that the juvenile court considers appropriate.

Extension of time periods

Current law requires a county department of human services or social services, the Department of Health and Family Services, or a child welfare agency (collectively “agency”) that investigates a report of suspected child abuse or neglect to determine, within 60 days after receipt of the report, whether abuse or neglect has occurred. Current law also requires the intake worker to request that a CHIPS petition be filed, enter into an informal disposition, or close the case within 40 days after the receipt of information that the child should be referred to the juvenile court. Recently, in Sheboygan County DHHS v. Jodell G., 2001 WI App 18, 240 Wis. 2d 516, the court of appeals held that the 60–day period within which an agency must determine whether child abuse or neglect has occurred and the 40–day period within which an intake worker must take action following receipt of referral information run concurrently.

This bill increases from 40 days to 60 days the period within which an intake worker must take action following receipt of referral information and codifies Jodell G. by providing that, if the referral information is a report of suspected child abuse or neglect received by an agency, that 60–day period begins on the day on which the report is received by the agency.

Also, under current law, the district attorney or corporation counsel must file a CHIPS petition within ten days after an intake worker cancels an informal disposition for failure of a parent or child to meet the obligations imposed under the informal disposition.

This bill extends the time within which a district attorney or corporation counsel must take action after an intake worker cancels an informal disposition by permitting the intake worker to notify the district attorney or corporation counsel of the cancellation within ten days after the informal disposition is cancelled and the district attorney or corporation counsel to file a CHIPS petition or close the case within 20 days after the date of the notice. Moreover, the bill permits the CHIPS petition to include information received before the effective date of the informal disposition, as well as information received during the period of the informal disposition, including information indicating that a party has not met the obligations imposed under the informal disposition, to provide a basis for conferring jurisdiction on the juvenile court.

Informal dispositions

Under current law, an informal disposition may be entered into only if the child and his or her parent, guardian, and legal custodian consent and may not exceed six months in length, unless extended by the intake worker after notice to the child, parent, guardian, and legal custodian. An informal disposition, however, may not be extended if the child, parent, guardian, or legal custodian objects. A child, parent, guardian, or legal custodian may also terminate an informal disposition on request.

This bill requires the consent of a child to enter into an informal disposition, permits a child to object to an extension of an informal disposition, and permits a child to terminate an informal disposition only if the child is 12 years of age or over. Accordingly, for a child under 12 years of age, only the consent of a parent, guardian, and legal custodian is required to enter into an informal disposition and only a parent, guardian, or legal custodian is permitted to object to an extension of, or request the termination of, an informal disposition.

Similarly, an informal disposition may be entered into with respect to an unborn child only if the unborn child, by the unborn child's guardian ad litem, the expectant mother, and, if the expectant mother is a child, her parent, guardian, and legal custodian consent; may not be extended if the unborn child, by the unborn child's guardian ad litem, the expectant mother, or, if the expectant mother is a child, her parent, guardian, or legal custodian object; and may be terminated upon the request of the unborn child, by the unborn child's guardian ad litem, the expectant mother, or, if the expectant mother is a child, her parent, guardian, or legal custodian.

This bill permits an informal disposition to be entered into without the consent of an unborn child, by the unborn child's guardian ad litem, or of a child expectant mother under 12 years of age and eliminates the right of an unborn child, by the unborn child's guardian ad litem, or of a child expectant mother under 12 years of age to object to an extension of, or to request the termination of, an informal disposition. Accordingly, for an unborn child, only the consent of the expectant mother, if 12 years of age or over, and the parent, guardian, and legal custodian of a child expectant mother are required to enter into an informal disposition and only an expectant mother, if 12 years of age or over, or a parent, guardian, or legal custodian of a child expectant mother are permitted to object to an extension of, or to request the termination of, an informal disposition.

Finally, current law provides that an informal disposition is terminated if the district attorney or corporation counsel files a CHIPS petition within 20 days after receipt of notice that the informal disposition has been entered into. If an informal disposition is terminated by the filing of a CHIPS petition, statements made to the intake worker during the intake inquiry are inadmissible. This bill eliminates the inadmissibility of those statements.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

SENATE BILL 496

1 48.24 (4) If the intake worker determines as a result of the intake inquiry that
2 the case should be subject to an informal disposition, or should be closed, the intake
3 worker shall so proceed. If a petition has been filed, informal disposition may not
4 occur or a case may not be closed unless the petition is withdrawn by the district
5 attorney, corporation counsel or other official specified in s. 48.09, or is dismissed by 6 the judge court.

11 department or, in a county having a population of 500,000 or more, the department
12 or a licensed child welfare agency under contract with the department under s.
13 48.981 (3) (a) 1., 1., or 2d., that 60-day period shall begin on the day on which the 15 agency. If the case is closed or an informal disposition is entered into, the district

16 attorney, corporation counsel, or other official under s. 48.09 shall receive written
17 notice of such that action. If a law enforcement officer has made a recommendation

3 SECTION 6. 48.245 (4) of the statutes is amended to read:

4 48.245 (4) The intake worker shall inform the child, if 12 years of age or over,

11 may alter the terms of the agreement or request the district attorney or corporation
12 counsel to file a petition. If the informal disposition is terminated, the intake worker
13 may request the district attorney or corporation counsel to file a petition.

14 SECTION 7. 48.245 (5) of the statutes is amended to read:

15 48.245 (5) Informal disposition shall be terminated upon the request of the 16 child, if 12 years of age or over, or the child's parent, guardian, or legal custodian,

25 ~~worker during the intake inquiry are inadmissible.~~

SENATE BILL 496

1 SECTION 9. 48.245 (7) of the statutes is amended to read:

2 48.245 (7) If at any time during the period of informal disposition the intake
3 worker determines that the obligations imposed under it are not being met, the 4 intake worker may cancel the informal disposition. Within 10 days after the 5 ~~cancellation of the informal disposition is cancelled~~, the intake worker shall notify 6 the district attorney, corporation counsel, or other official under s. 48.09 of the 7 cancellation and may request that a petition be filed. ~~The judge shall dismiss with~~
8 ~~prejudice any petition which~~ district attorney, corporation counsel, or other official
9 under s. 48.09 shall file the petition or close the case within 20 days after the date
10 of the notice. The petition may include information received before the effective date 11 of the informal disposition, as well as information received during the period of the 12 informal disposition, including information indicating that a party has not met the 13 obligations imposed under the informal disposition, to provide a basis for conferring 14 jurisdiction on the court. The court shall grant appropriate relief as provided in s.
15 48.315 (3) with respect to any petition that is not filed within the time limit period
16 specified in this subsection. Failure to object to the fact that a petition is not filed
17 within the time period specified in this subsection waives any objection to the court's
18 competency to act on the petition.

19 SECTION 10. 48.25 (2) of the statutes is amended to read:

20 48.25 (2) If the proceeding is brought under s. 48.13 or 48.133, the district
21 attorney, corporation counsel, or other appropriate official shall file the petition, 22 close the case, or refer the case back to intake within 20 days after the date that the 23 intake worker's ~~recommendation~~ request was filed. A referral back to intake may 24 be made only when the district attorney, corporation counsel, or other appropriate 25 official decides not to file a petition or determines that further investigation is

SENATE BILL 496SECTION 10

1 necessary. If the case is referred back to intake upon a decision not to file a petition,
2 the intake worker shall close the case or enter into an informal disposition within 20
3 days after the date of the referral. If the case is referred back to intake for further
4 investigation, the appropriate agency or person shall complete the investigation
5 within 20 days after the date of the referral. If another referral is made to the district
6 attorney, corporation counsel, or other appropriate official, it shall be considered a
7 new referral to which the time ~~limits periods~~ of this subsection shall apply. The time
8 ~~limits periods~~ in this subsection may only be extended by a judge court upon a
9 showing of good cause under s. 48.315. If a petition is not filed within the applicable 10 time limitations period set forth in this subsection and the court has not granted an 11 extension, the petition shall be accompanied by a statement of reasons for the delay.
12 The court shall ~~dismiss with prejudice a petition which was not timely filed unless~~
13 ~~the court finds at the plea hearing that good cause has been shown for failure to meet~~
14 ~~the time limitations~~ grant appropriate relief as provided in s. 48.315 (3) with respect
15 to any petition that is not filed within the applicable time period specified in this 16 subsection. Failure to object to the fact that a petition is not filed within the 17 applicable time period specified in this subsection waives any challenge to the court's
18 competency to act on the petition.

19 SECTION 11. 48.315 (1) (intro.) of the statutes is amended to read:

20 48.315 (1) (intro.) The following time periods shall be excluded in computing
21 time ~~requirements within periods under~~ this chapter:

22 SECTION 12. 48.315 (2m) (a) (intro.) of the statutes is renumbered 48.315 (2m)
23 (intro.) and amended to read:

24 48.315 (2m) (intro.) No continuance or extension of a time ~~limit period~~ specified
25 in this chapter may be granted and no period of delay specified in sub. (1) may be

SENATE BILL 496

1 excluded in computing a time requirement period under this chapter if the 2 continuance, extension, or exclusion would result in any of the following:

3 SECTION 13. 48.315 (2m) (a) 1. of the statutes, as affected by 2007 Wisconsin
4 Act 20, is renumbered 48.315 (2m) (a).

5 SECTION 14. 48.315 (2m) (a) 2. of the statutes is renumbered 48.315 (2m) (b).

6 SECTION 15. 48.315 (2m) (b) of the statutes is renumbered 48.315 (3) and 7 amended to read:

8 48.315 (3) ~~Failure to comply with any time limit by the court or a party to act~~
9 ~~within any time period~~ specified in par. (a) this chapter does not deprive the court of 10 personal or subject matter jurisdiction or of competency to exercise that jurisdiction.
11 Failure to object to a period of delay or a continuance waives any challenge to the 12 court's competency to act during the period of delay or continuance. If the court or 13 a party does not comply with a time limit act within a time period specified in par.
14 (a) this chapter, the court, while assuring the safety of the child, may grant a 15 continuance under sub. (2), dismiss the proceeding with or without prejudice, release
16 the child from ~~eustody~~ secure or nonsecure custody or from the terms of a custody
17 order, or grant any other relief that the court considers appropriate.

18 SECTION 16. 48.365 (6) of the statutes is amended to read:

19 48.365 (6) If a request to extend a dispositional order is made prior to the 20 termination of the order, but the court is unable to conduct a hearing on the request
21 prior to the termination date, the court may extend the order for a period of not more 22 than 30 days, not including any period of delay resulting from any of the 23 circumstances specified in s. 48.315 (1). The court shall grant appropriate relief as 24 provided in s. 48.315 (3) with respect to any request to extend a dispositional order
25 on which a hearing is not held within the time period specified in this subsection.

SENATE BILL 496SECTION 16

1 Failure to object if a hearing is not held within the time period under this subsection

16 of the judicial administrative district in which the court is located shall assign the 17 temporary reserve judge selected by the minor and the minor's counsel, if any, or the 18 member of the clergy, if any, to make the determination and issue the order. A 19 temporary reserve judge assigned under this subdivision to make a determination 20 under par. (c) and issue an order granting or denying a petition shall make the 21 determination and issue the order within 2 calendar days after the assignment, 22 unless the minor and her counsel, if any, or the member of the clergy who filed the 23 petition on behalf of the minor, if any, consent to an extension of that time period.
24 The order shall be effective immediately. The court shall prepare and file with the
