This idea is to allow interbasin transfers that exist when the bill is enacted and that are not for public water supply to continue. There is one irrigator that is known to fall into this category, but do not limit this to irrigators. The interbasin transfer amount should be determined in the way that initial withdrawal amounts are determined and that would be baseline for such a person. RCT

6. Grandfather Existing Diversions for Irrigation

Amend s. 281.344 (3m) [page 55, lines 20-25]:

Automatic Approval for Existing Interbasin Transfers. Before the compact's effective date, the department shall automatically issue an approval for an interbasin transfer that begins before the compact's effective date to any person operating a withdrawal which results in an interbasin transfer or to a person...

Amend page 56, lines 4-7

In the automatic approval, the department shall specify an interbasin transfer amount equal to the amount determined under (4e) or for persons operating a public water supply system, the amount determined under (3e) and an interbasin transfer area that is the area described in sub.(3e)(b).
