2007 ASSEMBLY BILL 269

AN ACT to create 940.208 of the statutes; relating to: threats to social service workers, juvenile intake workers, or child support workers and providing a penalty.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law prohibits certain threats to cause bodily harm to the person or family member of a judge, a witness, or an official, employee, or agent of the Department of Revenue, Department of Commerce, or Department of Workforce Development. A person who violates this prohibition is guilty of a felony and may be fined up to $10,000 or sentenced to a term of imprisonment of up to six years, which if the sentence is for more than one year includes a term of extended supervision, or both.

This bill prohibits certain threats to cause bodily harm to a social service worker employed by or working under contract with a government agency, a juvenile intake worker, or a child support worker. A threat is covered by this prohibition if: 1) the person making the threat knows or should have known that the victim is a social service worker, juvenile intake worker, or child support worker; 2) at the time of the threat, the victim is acting in his or her official capacity or the threat is made in response to any action taken in an official capacity; and 3) the victim did not consent to the threat. A person who violates this prohibition is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor and may be fined not more than $10,000 or sentenced to the county jail for up to nine months or both.

Because this bill creates a new crime or revises a penalty for an existing crime, the Joint Review Committee on Criminal Penalties may be requested to prepare a report concerning the proposed penalty and the costs or savings that are likely to result if the bill is enacted.
