- 1 AN ACT to amend 146.81 (4), 252.11 (5m), 252.11 (7) and 252.15 (2) (a) 6.; and 2 to create 301.133 and 901.05 (4) of the statutes; relating to: mandatory
3 testing of prison inmates upon release for HIV or sexually transmitted diseases.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, a court may order a person to undergo testing to detect the presence of human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) and sexually transmitted diseases if the person is: 1) an adult charged with or convicted of sexual assault, sexual assault or sexual exploitation of a child, incest with a child, or, if the person works at a school, sexual assault of a student; or 2) a child alleged to have committed sexual assault, sexual assault or sexual exploitation of a child, or incest with a child. Current law also permits a court to order a person who is confined in a state prison or any other state, county, or municipal detention facility to be tested for the presence of communicable diseases if he or she assaults another prisoner or detainee or an officer, employee, or visitor at that facility by throwing or expelling blood, semen, vomit, saliva, urine, feces, or any other bodily substance at or toward the other person.

Under this bill, a person who is confined in a state prison will be required to be tested for the presence of HIV and sexually transmitted diseases before being released. If the person has reached the end of his or her sentence, the Department of Corrections (DOC) will provide one mandatory test and the results before releasing him or her and then will offer one test between six and seven months after his or her release. If the person is being released to extended supervision or parole, DOC will provide two tests. Each individual will be tested the first time and the results will be provided before being released to extended supervision or on parole. Then, as a condition of extended supervision or parole, the individual will be tested again generally between six and seven months after release from prison. The results of any test will be provided only to the person being released and to his or her spouse. DOC will also offer counseling and education to the individual who was tested or to his or her spouse.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:
