PRELIMINARY DRAFT - NOT READY FOR INTRODUCTION

o-Note

1 AN ACT ...; relating to: the issuance of driver cards and driver card instruction

2 permits by the Department of Transportation[✓] and requiring the exercise of

3 rule-making authority[✓].

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, as a result of 2005 Wisconsin Act 126[✓], an applicant for an operator's license or identification card must present documentary proof that the person is either a United States[✓] citizen or legally present in the United States[✓]. The Department of Transportation (DOT)[✓] may not issue an operator's license to an applicant who has not provided this documentary proof of citizenship or legal presence[✓]. If documentary proof provided by a noncitizen[✓] includes an end date for the person's authorized legal presence in the United States, an operator's license or identification card issued to the person must expire no later than the date on which the person's authorization to be legally present in the United States[✓] ends.

Under current federal law, the REAL ID Act of 2005 (REAL ID Act)[✓] prohibits a federal agency from accepting for any "official purpose," including boarding commercial aircraft and entering federal buildings, an operator's license or identification card issued by a state unless the state satisfies requirements contained in the REAL ID Act[✓]. The REAL ID Act[✓] allows states to issue operator's licenses and identification cards that are not compliant with REAL ID standards if they clearly state on their face that they cannot be accepted by any federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose and if they use a unique design or color indicator to alert federal agency and other law enforcement personnel that they are not REAL ID compliant[✓]. While the provisions of the REAL ID Act became effective on May 11, 2008, the federal Department of Homeland Security (Homeland Security) regulations promulgated under the REAL ID Act gave states additional time to implement the REAL ID standards. The 2007 Biennial Budget Act, 2007 Wisconsin Act 20, contained provisions incorporating into state law requirements contained in the REAL ID Act. However, most of these provisions are subject to a contingent effective date; the provisions do not become effective until the date specified in a notice provided by DOT after DOT has determined that it is ready to fully implement the REAL ID Act. DOT has not yet provided this notice.

After DOT provides this notice and these provisions of REAL ID become effective, they will require DOT to significantly modify its process for issuing operator's licenses and identification cards. DOT cannot issue or renew an operator's license or identification card unless the applicant provides, and DOT verifies, all of the following information: 1) an identification document that includes either the applicant's photograph or both the applicant's full legal name and date of birth; 2) documentation showing the applicant's date of birth; 3) proof of the applicant's social security number or verification that the applicant is not eligible for a social security number; 4) documentation showing the applicant's name and address of principal residence; and 5) valid documentary proof that the individual is a citizen or national of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent or temporary residence in the United States or has any of other specified forms of legal status or authorization. In processing the application, DOT must verify each document provided and must capture a digital image of each document, which must be retained for at least ten years. For certain legally present noncitizen applicants, DOT must issue operator's licenses or identification cards displaying, on the front of the license or card, a legend identifying the license as temporary. These licenses and identification cards must expire on the date that the person's legal presence in the United States is no longer authorized or, if there is no end date for the person's authorized legal presence, one year after the date of license or identification card issuance. These licenses and identification cards cannot be renewed unless the applicant provides documentary proof showing that Homeland Security extended the status by which the applicant qualified for the license or identification card.

This bill requires DOT to issue "driver cards," authorizing only the operation of "Class D" vehicles (generally automobiles and light-duty trucks), to applicants who: 1) are at least 18 years old or have held a driver card instruction permit for at least six months; 2) meet the knowledge and driving skills testing requirements applicable for issuance of operator's licenses for "Class D" vehicles; 3) provide proof of identity; 4) provide proof that they have been Wisconsin residents for at least six months; 5) are unable to provide the documentary proof (as established under 2005 Act 126 and as established under 2007 Act 20 after implementation of REAL ID) that they are either United States citizens or legally present in the United States; 6) provide valid individual taxpayer identification numbers; and 7) are not eligible for social security numbers. The document storage and verification requirements imposed for operator's license applicants after the implementation of REAL ID may not be imposed for driver card applicants. Unlike other operator's license applicants between the ages of 18 and 26, DOT does not forward a driver card applicant's information to the selective service system.

Driver cards must be labeled as such and must clearly state on their face that they may not be accepted by any federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose. Driver cards must also have a unique design or color indicator that clearly distinguishes them from other operator's licenses or identification cards issued by DOT and that alerts federal authorities that they are not REAL ID compliant. A driver card is issued for a two-year period and must be renewed every two years thereafter. The fee for issuance and renewal of a driver card is the same as that applicable to other operator's licenses, although the valid period is shorter.

DOT must also issue driver card instruction permits to persons who are at least 15 and one-half years old, who have passed any knowledge test required by DOT, and who, except for age or lack of training, are qualified to obtain a driver card. The operating restrictions for driver card instruction permits are similar to those applicable to other instruction permits.

DOT must promulgate rules specifying the standards for the issuance of driver cards and driver card instruction permits, including standards for proof of residency and proof of identification.

A law enforcement officer, state agent, or local authority may not use a driver card or driver card instruction permit as a basis to inquire about the immigration status of an individual who lawfully presents the driver card or driver card instruction permit for its intended purpose. An insurer may not cancel or refuse to issue or renew an automobile insurance policy because the person has been issued a driver card or driver card instruction permit.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

Please review the attached draft carefully to ensure that it is consistent with your intent. ✓

The attached draft does not provide funding to DOT ✓ for issuing driver cards and driver card instruction permits. ✓ Although the attached draft is identical to the budget amendment, LRBb0472/1, ✓ because of the way the budget process works, the attached draft lacks the funding that would have been included in the budget bill. ✓ The budget bill provided $1,757,300 in fiscal year 2009-10, ✓ and $898,000 in fiscal year 2010-11, to DMV for purposes of implementing the driver card system. ✓ In addition, the budget bill added 23.1 SEG positions to DMV for this purpose. To make this draft equal to the budget bill, I would need to add to the end of the draft appropriation increase and position increase provisions, ✓ corresponding to these amounts. The complication is that I was recently told by DOT that there are no funds available in the transportation fund, that in fact a $30 million deficit is being projected. Therefore, to make the funding work, simply including an appropriation increase for DMV would not be sufficient; cuts to other DOT programs would be necessary. ✓ If you would like to follow up on the funding aspects of this draft, I recommend that you speak again with Jon Dyck. *

Please let me know if you would like any changes made to the attached draft or if you have any questions. If the attached draft meets with your approval, let me know and I will convert it to an introducible "/1" draft. ✓

ATTN: Vanessa Solis

Please review the attached draft carefully to ensure that it is consistent with your intent.

The attached draft does not provide funding to DOT for issuing driver cards and driver card instruction permits. Although the attached draft is identical to the budget amendment, LRBb0472/1, because of the way the budget process works, the attached draft lacks the funding that would have been included in the budget bill. The budget bill provided $1,757,300 in fiscal year 2009-10, and $898,000 in fiscal year 2010-11, to DMV for purposes of implementing the driver card system. In addition, the budget bill added 23.1 SEG positions to DMV for this purpose. To make this draft equal to the budget bill, I would need to add to the end of the draft appropriation increase and position increase provisions corresponding to these amounts. The complication is that I was recently told by DOT that there are no funds available in the transportation fund, that in fact a $30,000,000 deficit is being projected. Therefore, to make the funding work, simply including an appropriation increase for DMV would not be sufficient; cuts to other DOT programs would be necessary. If you would like to follow up on the funding aspects of this draft, I recommend that you speak again with Jon Dyck.

Please let me know if you would like any changes made to the attached draft or if you have any questions. If the attached draft meets with your approval, let me know and I will convert it to an introducible "/1" draft.

I think the fiscal changes should take effect immediately, since the Department would need some funding in 2009-10 to begin data processing.

Jon,

The bill won't take effect until FY2010-11, so what do you want me to do with the FY09-10 funding - omit it or add the amount into FY10-11? Thanks.

Aaron,

I've been asked by Rep. Colon's office to give you drafting instructions for a stand-alone driver card bill. The provisions should be identical to what was included in the Joint Finance version of the budget. As with the budget provision, the bill should have a delayed effective date of the first day of the sixth month beginning after enactment. Increase the 20.395(5)(cq) by $602,000 in 2009-10 and $1,782,000 in 2010-11 and include a nonstatutory provision that reduces the 2010-11 base, for purposes of the 2011-13 budget by $669,800. In addition, the position authorization for (5)(cq) should be increased by 23.1. If you would normally distinguish between project and permanent positions in the draft, 14.6 positions should be project positions, while 8.5 would be permanent classified. Let me know if you have any questions. Thanks.

 4 statutes; relating to: the issuance of driver cards and driver card instruction
 5 permits by the Department of Transportation, and requiring the exercise of
 6 rule-making authority, and making an appropriation

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, as a result of 2005 Wisconsin Act 126, an applicant for an operator's license or identification card must present documentary proof that the person is either a United States citizen or legally present in the United States. The Department of Transportation (DOT) may not issue an operator's license to an applicant who has not provided this documentary proof of citizenship or legal presence. If documentary proof provided by a noncitizen includes an end date for the person's authorized legal presence in the United States, an operator's license or identification card issued to the person must expire no later than the date on which the person's authorization to be legally present in the United States ends.

Under current federal law, the REAL ID Act of 2005 (REAL ID Act) prohibits a federal agency from accepting for any "official purpose," including boarding commercial aircraft and entering federal buildings, an operator's license or identification card issued by a state unless the state satisfies requirements

contained in the REAL ID Act. The REAL ID Act allows states to issue operator's licenses and identification cards that are not compliant with REAL ID standards if they clearly state on their face that they cannot be accepted by any federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose and if they use a unique design or color indicator to alert federal agency and other law enforcement personnel that they are not REAL ID compliant. While the provisions of the REAL ID Act became effective on May 11, 2008, the federal Department of Homeland Security (Homeland Security) regulations promulgated under the REAL ID Act gave states additional time to implement the REAL ID standards. The 2007 biennial budget act, 2007 Wisconsin Act 20, contained provisions incorporating into state law requirements contained in the REAL ID Act. However, most of these provisions are subject to a contingent effective date; the provisions do not become effective until the date specified in a notice provided by DOT after DOT has determined that it is ready to fully implement the REAL ID Act. DOT has not yet provided this notice.

After DOT provides this notice and these provisions of REAL ID become effective, they will require DOT to significantly modify its process for issuing operator's licenses and identification cards and DOT cannot issue or renew an operator's license or identification card unless the applicant provides, and DOT verifies, all of the following information: 1) an identification document that includes either the applicant's photograph or both the applicant's full legal name and date of birth; 2) documentation showing the applicant's date of birth; 3) proof of the applicant's social security number or verification that the applicant is not eligible for a social security number; 4) documentation showing the applicant's name and address of principal residence; and 5) valid documentary proof that the individual is a citizen or national of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent or temporary residence in the United States or has any of other specified forms of legal status or authorization. In processing the application, DOT must verify each document provided and must capture a digital image of each document, which must be retained for at least ten years. For certain legally present noncitizen applicants, DOT must issue operator's licenses or identification cards displaying, on the front of the license or card, a legend identifying the license or identification card as temporary. These licenses and identification cards must expire on the date that the person's legal presence in the United States is no longer authorized or, if there is no end date for the person's authorized legal presence, one year after the date of license or identification card issuance. These licenses and identification cards cannot be renewed unless the applicant provides documentary proof showing that Homeland Security extended the status by which the applicant qualified for the license or identification card.

This bill requires DOT to issue "driver cards," authorizing only the operation of "Class D" vehicles (generally automobiles and light-duty trucks), to applicants who: 1) are at least 18 years old or have held a driver card instruction permit for at least six months; 2) meet the knowledge and driving skills testing requirements applicable for issuance of operator's licenses for "Class D" vehicles; 3) provide proof of identity; 4) provide proof that they have been Wisconsin residents for at least six months; 5) are unable to provide the documentary proof (as established under 2005

Wisconsin Act 126 and as established under 2007 Wisconsin Act 20 after implementation of REAL ID) that they are either United States citizens or legally present in the United States; 6) provide valid individual taxpayer identification numbers; and 7) are not eligible for social security numbers. The document storage and verification requirements imposed for operator's license applicants after the implementation of REAL ID may not be imposed for driver card applicants. Unlike other operator's license applicants between the ages of 18 and 26, DOT does not forward a driver card applicant's information to the selective service system.

Driver cards must be labeled as such and must clearly state on their face that they may not be accepted by any federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose. Driver cards must also have a unique design or color indicator that clearly distinguishes them from other operator's licenses or identification cards issued by DOT and that alerts federal authorities that they are not REAL ID compliant. A driver card is issued for a two-year period and must be renewed every two years thereafter. The fee for issuance and renewal of a driver card is the same as that applicable to other operator's licenses, although the valid period is shorter.

DOT must also issue driver card instruction permits to persons who are at least 15 and one-half years old, who have passed any knowledge test required by DOT, and who, except for age or lack of training, are qualified to obtain a driver card. The operating restrictions for driver card instruction permits are similar to those applicable to other instruction permits.

DOT must promulgate rules specifying the standards for the issuance of driver cards and driver card instruction permits, including standards for proof of residency and proof of identification.

A law enforcement officer, state agent, or local authority may not use a driver card or driver card instruction permit as a basis to inquire about the immigration status of an individual who lawfully presents the driver card or driver card instruction permit for its intended purpose. An insurer may not cancel or refuse to issue or renew an automobile insurance policy because the person has been issued a driver card or driver card instruction permit.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

- 1 SECTION 1. 340.01 (41g) of the statutes is amended to read:

15 person who holds a valid regular license. An applicant under this subsection is 16 subject to all applicable fees specified in s. 343.21 (1). A driver card instruction
17 permit shall satisfy all requirements for driver cards specified in s. 343.09 (2) and 18 any provision specified in s. 343.09 (6) shall not apply with respect to a driver card
19 instruction permit.

5 343.09 Driver cards. (1) Except as provided in s. 343.06 (1) (a) to (k) and (m),
6 the department shall issue a driver card to any applicant who meets all of the 7 following requirements:

8 (a) The applicant is at least 18 years of age, unless the applicant has held an 9 instruction permit issued under s. 343.07 (1j) for not less than 6 months and, during
10 the 6-month period immediately preceding application, has not committed a moving
11 violation resulting in a conviction.

12 (b) The applicant meets all requirements under s. 343.16 (1) (a) for issuance of 13 an operator's license authorizing operation of "Class D" vehicles.

24 be encoded in the cards' machine readable zone, that they may not be accepted by any 25 federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose. Driver cards

1 shall have a unique design or color indicator that clearly distinguishes them from
2 other operator's licenses or identification cards issued by the department and that
3 alerts federal agency and other law enforcement personnel that they may not be
4 accepted for federal identification or any other official purpose.

7 described in s. 343.04 (2).

8 (4) Notwithstanding s. 343.20 (1) (a), a driver card issued under this section
9 shall expire 2 years from the date of the applicant's last birthday and, upon renewal,

20 shall not result in the application of any of these provisions with respect to a driver
21 card.

22 (7) The department shall promulgate rules specifying the standards for the
23 issuance of driver cards, including standards for proof of residency and for proof of
24 identification. These rules shall also apply to driver card instruction permits under

1 s. 343.07 (1j). The department shall, by rule, specify applicable moving violations for 12 provisions with respect to a driver card.

13 (7) The department shall promulgate rules specifying the standards for the 14 issuance of driver cards, including standards for proof of residency and for proof of 15 identification. These rules shall also apply to driver card instruction permits under 16 s. 343.07 (1j). The department shall, by rule, specify applicable moving violations for

6 rule-making authority, and making an appropriation.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, as a result of 2005 Wisconsin Act 126, an applicant for an operator's license or identification card must present documentary proof that the person is either a United States citizen or legally present in the United States. The Department of Transportation (DOT) may not issue an operator's license to an applicant who has not provided this documentary proof of citizenship or legal presence. If documentary proof provided by a noncitizen includes an end date for the person's authorized legal presence in the United States, an operator's license or identification card issued to the person must expire no later than the date on which the person's authorization to be legally present in the United States ends.

Under current federal law, the REAL ID Act of 2005 (REAL ID Act) prohibits a federal agency from accepting for any "official purpose," including boarding commercial aircraft and entering federal buildings, an operator's license or identification card issued by a state unless the state satisfies requirements

contained in the REAL ID Act. The REAL ID Act allows states to issue operator's licenses and identification cards that are not compliant with REAL ID standards if they clearly state on their face that they cannot be accepted by any federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose and if they use a unique design or color indicator to alert federal agency and other law enforcement personnel that they are not REAL ID compliant. While the provisions of the REAL ID Act became effective on May 11, 2008, the federal Department of Homeland Security (Homeland Security) regulations promulgated under the REAL ID Act gave states additional time to implement the REAL ID standards. The 2007 biennial budget act, 2007 Wisconsin Act 20, contained provisions incorporating into state law requirements contained in the REAL ID Act. However, most of these provisions are subject to a contingent effective date; the provisions do not become effective until the date specified in a notice provided by DOT after DOT has determined that it is ready to fully implement the REAL ID Act. DOT has not yet provided this notice.

After DOT provides this notice and these provisions of REAL ID become effective, they will require DOT to significantly modify its process for issuing operator's licenses and identification cards and DOT cannot issue or renew an operator's license or identification card unless the applicant provides, and DOT verifies, all of the following information: 1) an identification document that includes either the applicant's photograph or both the applicant's full legal name and date of birth; 2) documentation showing the applicant's date of birth; 3) proof of the applicant's social security number or verification that the applicant is not eligible for a social security number; 4) documentation showing the applicant's name and address of principal residence; and 5) valid documentary proof that the individual is a citizen or national of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent or temporary residence in the United States or has any of other specified forms of legal status or authorization. In processing the application, DOT must verify each document provided and must capture a digital image of each document, which must be retained for at least ten years. For certain legally present noncitizen applicants, DOT must issue operator's licenses or identification cards displaying, on the front of the license or card, a legend identifying the license or identification card as temporary. These licenses and identification cards must expire on the date that the person's legal presence in the United States is no longer authorized or, if there is no end date for the person's authorized legal presence, one year after the date of license or identification card issuance. These licenses and identification cards cannot be renewed unless the applicant provides documentary proof showing that Homeland Security extended the status by which the applicant qualified for the license or identification card.

This bill requires DOT to issue "driver cards," authorizing only the operation of "Class D" vehicles (generally automobiles and light-duty trucks), to applicants who: 1) are at least 18 years old or have held a driver card instruction permit for at least six months; 2) meet the knowledge and driving skills testing requirements applicable for issuance of operator's licenses for "Class D" vehicles; 3) provide proof of identity; 4) provide proof that they have been Wisconsin residents for at least six months; 5) are unable to provide the documentary proof (as established under 2005

Wisconsin Act 126 and as established under 2007 Wisconsin Act 20 after implementation of REAL ID) that they are either United States citizens or legally present in the United States; 6) provide valid individual taxpayer identification numbers; and 7) are not eligible for social security numbers. The document storage and verification requirements imposed for operator's license applicants after the implementation of REAL ID may not be imposed for driver card applicants. Unlike other operator's license applicants between the ages of 18 and 26, DOT does not forward a driver card applicant's information to the selective service system.

Driver cards must be labeled as such and must clearly state on their face that they may not be accepted by any federal agency for federal identification or any other official purpose. Driver cards must also have a unique design or color indicator that clearly distinguishes them from other operator's licenses or identification cards issued by DOT and that alerts federal authorities that they are not REAL ID compliant. A driver card is issued for a two-year period and must be renewed every two years thereafter. The fee for issuance and renewal of a driver card is the same as that applicable to other operator's licenses, although the valid period is shorter.

DOT must also issue driver card instruction permits to persons who are at least 15 and one-half years old, who have passed any knowledge test required by DOT, and who, except for age or lack of training, are qualified to obtain a driver card. The operating restrictions for driver card instruction permits are similar to those applicable to other instruction permits.

DOT must promulgate rules specifying the standards for the issuance of driver cards and driver card instruction permits, including standards for proof of residency and proof of identification.

A law enforcement officer, state agent, or local authority may not use a driver card or driver card instruction permit as a basis to inquire about the immigration status of an individual who lawfully presents the driver card or driver card instruction permit for its intended purpose. An insurer may not cancel or refuse to issue or renew an automobile insurance policy because the person has been issued a driver card or driver card instruction permit.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
