Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

PROVISIONS OF THE BILL

This bill concerns records of the Division of Motor Vehicles that are presented as evidence in court. For admissibility in court, public records must be certified by the record custodian or authorized person. Certification meets the general provision of authentication and identification of evidence in court: it provides "evidence sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims" (s.909.01, Stats.).

Currently, DMV driver records may be certified electronically, rather than by hand, by DOT in a manner determined by DOT sufficient to show that the record is genuine. This bill expands the same admissibility to other DMV records, allowing those records to be certified electronically.

FISCAL IMPACT

No state fiscal impact.

No local fiscal impact.
