Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Should this bill be enacted, District Attorneys almost universally stated that they would need additional prosecutors to handle the additional workload. Though it is difficult to predict the frequency of such conduct, prosecutors anticipate that with the increase in technology there will be a fairly large number of cases. In addition, referrals that DAs would receive would likely be labor-intensive with the need to obtain subpoenas for various records before they could even get to the issuance of a complaint.

DA estimated the need for additional ADAs due to enactment of this bill to be between .1 and 1.0 FTE for each office upon enactment of this bill.

Long-Range Fiscal Implications

The long-range fiscal implication is difficult to determine due to the uncertainty of the number of cases involved. However, most prosecutors agreed that they would need between 0.1 and 1.0 FTE per office.
