Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

The passage of Act 28 in 2009 made several adjustments to Wisconsin's prevailing wage law that increased the number of construction projects covered by the law, created a certified payroll reporting requirement to be operated by the department and made several other changes to the law. While these changes increased the department's workload in enforcing state prevailing wage laws Act 28 provided no additional financial or staff resources to handle this workload.

This bill eliminates all of the changes made to the state prevailing wage laws in Act 28. While the elimination of these changes will return the department's workload in enforcing Wisconsin's prevailing wage laws to prior levels it will have no impact upon the resources or staff positions available to the department. The department will have the same budget and staff available to enforce state prevailing wage laws as it did prior to the passage of Act 28. The department therefore anticipates passage of this legislation will have produce no cost savings to the department.

Passage of this legislation will decrease the number of construction projects undertaken by local government units that will be covered by state prevailing wage laws. At a minimum this means local government entities will have to apply for fewer project determinations which will save these government entities some processing costs. Depending upon one's point of view having a construction not covered by state prevailing laws may or may not provide a saving to the government entity. Nationally there have been several studies concerning this subject with mixed results. The department believes that to the extent that prevailing wage rates reflect the rates paid locally there would be no savings by having a construction project not covered by the prevailing wage laws as compared to being covered.

Passage of this legislation will require the department to spend at least $2,000 to publicize the changes to the law and to adopt new regulations setting 2010 project thresholds.

Long-Range Fiscal Implications

None.
