The bill defines a CDFI as an entity that is organized under the laws of this state and has been certified by the Community Development Financial Institutions Fund established under federal law (fund) as meeting certain eligibility requirements. The bill permits Commerce to register a CDFI that applies to Commerce and complies with annual reporting requirements. for certification by the fund. Commerce may certify up to $500,000 in tax credits in any calendar year.

A person certified to receive tax credits may claim 10 percent of the person's qualified investment, if the investment is at least $10,000, but not more than $150,000, or 12 percent of the person's qualified investment, if the investment is more than $150,000, but not more than $500,000. If the person withdraws the qualified investment from the CDFI before the end of the investment period and does not reinvest the qualified investment in another CDFI, the person must repay a portion of the credit amounts that the person received by adding the portion to the person's tax or fee liability in a subsequent year. However, the portion that the person must repay depends on when the person withdraws the investment during the investment period. The portion that the person must repay decreases the longer the person holds the investment during the investment period.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under this bill, the Department of Commerce (Commerce) may certify a person who makes a qualified investment in a registered community development financial institution (CDFI) to receive a credit against state income and franchise taxes and against license fees paid by insurers. The bill defines a CDFI as an entity that is organized under the laws of this state and has been certified by the Community Development Financial Institutions Fund established under federal law (fund) as meeting certain eligibility requirements. The bill permits Commerce to register a CDFI that applies to Commerce and complies with annual reporting requirements. The bill defines a “qualified investment” as a loan or deposit that pays no interest of at least $10,000 that is made for a minimum of 60 months and over which the CDFI retains complete control for the duration of the investment period.

Commerce may revoke the registration of a CDFI that fails to comply with annual reporting requirements or that no longer meets the eligibility requirement for certification by the fund. Commerce may certify up to $500,000 in tax credits in any calendar year.

A person certified to receive tax credits may claim 10 percent of the person’s qualified investment, if the investment is at least $10,000, but not more than $150,000, or 12 percent of the person’s qualified investment, if the investment is more than $150,000, but not more than $500,000. If the person withdraws the qualified investment from the CDFI before the end of the investment period and does not reinvest the qualified investment in another CDFI, the person must repay a portion of the credit amounts that the person received by adding the portion to the person’s tax or fee liability in a subsequent year. However, the portion that the person must repay depends on when the person withdraws the investment during the investment period. The portion that the person must repay decreases the longer the person holds the investment during the investment period.

Under current law, the maximum amount of dairy manufacturing facility investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers, other than members of dairy cooperatives, in a fiscal year is $700,000 and the maximum amount of dairy manufacturing facility investment credits that may be claimed by members of dairy cooperatives in a fiscal year is $700,000.

Under the bill, the maximum amount of dairy manufacturing facility investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers, other than members of dairy cooperatives, in a fiscal year is $1,000,000 and the maximum amount of dairy manufacturing facility investment credits that may be claimed by members of dairy cooperatives in a fiscal year is $1,000,000.

Under current law, the maximum amount of meat processing facility investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers in a fiscal year is $700,000.

The bill increases the maximum amount of meat processing facility investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers in a fiscal year to $1,200,000.

Under current law, for fiscal year beginning on July 1, 2010, the maximum amount of food processing plant and food warehouse investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers is $1,200,000. Beginning with fiscal year 2011-12, and in each subsequent fiscal year, the maximum amount of food processing plant and food warehouse investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers is $700,000. Under the bill, the maximum amount of food processing plant and food warehouse investment credits that may be claimed by all taxpayers in a fiscal year is $1,200,000.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
