Tracy,

This is what I received back from the Department. I have broken them into three categories. Please let me know if any of the three with changes are going to take a while. If so, we may want to move forward without it.

Thanks for all your help! I hope this addresses all of your questions.

Eileen

Go ahead and include in combined draft:

LRB 3208 – No concerns with bill as drafted. Numbers are accurate.

LRB 3241 – No concerns with bill as drafted. Drafter made correct assumption that “previously constructed” does not modify “adult family home”.

LRB 3255 – Draft looks good.

Please change and include:

LRB 3257 – The term “private sewage system” should also be changed in 236.13.

LRB 3289 – All suggested changes in the draft look good. As to chapter 447, maybe the word “applicant” could be added in close proximity to the word “deny” in the intro to 447.07(3). This may clarify the authority of the board as to applicants. The section is entitled “Disciplinary proceedings” and normally a disciplinary action can only be taken against someone holding a license.

LRB 3288 – 443.17 does not need to be changed. All changes needed to add “appropriate section of the examining board” should be made. Authority to make rules should be specifically addressed.

Do not include:

LRB 3264 – Withdraw this request. The Osteopaths are in the process of renewing for the March 2012 renewal. This is a particularly bad time to make the change. Also, they were just changed a few years ago and another change would likely not be welcome. The advantages are minimal and there are a number of disadvantages to this recommendation at this time.

Hi Eileen –

I know you indicated that the bills in your list are in final approved form. However, I did want to bring to your attention that the following LRB numbers had a drafter's note that was either attached to the proposed bill or embedded in the text of the proposed bill and that raised an issue or asked questions about the proposed bill. I wanted to confirm that these notes were reviewed and that the Governor's office did not wish to make any changes to the drafts in response to the issues and questions identified in the notes:

LRB 3208/P1
LRB 3241/P1
LRB 3255/P1
LRB 3257/P1
LRB 3264/P1

LRB 3288/P1 (This draft contains both drafter's note and an embedded note. Because of the questions raised in the drafter's note and because I was not certain the bill was in final form when it was submitted to you in November, I did not prepare an analysis for this draft, so one will need to be prepared.)

LRB 3289/P1 (Because I was not certain the bill was in final form when it was submitted to you in October, I did not prepare an analysis for this draft. Once so one will need to be prepared.)

I will wait to compile the bills until I have received confirmation from you that no changes need to be made to any of these proposed bills.

Tracy

Yes, all of the drafts are in final (approved) form. There were just two that I wanted to point out that were /P2's. There are also a couple of drafts that we decided not to go with. So we are only using the items that I had in this email. Thanks!

Hi Eileen –

I am copying the other drafters on this email to give them a heads up. Compiling in and of itself is simple and straightforward; we simply pul the drafts and run them together. The only hang up that might occur is if there are any inconsistent treatments or overlapping treatments. Do I understand your instruction correctly – all of the drafts are in final (approved) form?

If so, I will take care of pulling the drafts and getting them ready for the compile. If there are any conflicts, the individual attorneys will need to address them. I'm not sure about my colleague's holiday schedules, nor do I know what staffing levels we will have in the editing department over the next week. These two factors will affect the time it takes to get the draft to you. However, I would think we could have the draft to you by the first or second week of 2012.

Please be aware that our office is closed on 12/26 and 1/2/12.

Thanks,
 Tracy

Hi Tracy,

12/22/2011

We are ready to compile the following list of items into one comprehensive DSPS bill draft. Most of the drafts are the /P1 version. There are two that I have highlighted below that are /P2's.

Do you know how long it will take to get everything combined and into one document? We would like to arrange meetings with potential legislative authors and just wanted to know when we might be able to schedule those.

Thank you and the other drafters so much for your work on this large project! Please let me know if you have any questions.

Current law imposes penalties on the sale, purchase, or possession of certain controlled substances. Current law measures controlled substances by grams and, generally, penalties increase with the amount of the controlled substance that is sold, purchased, or possessed.

Current law makes reference to possessing or purchasing more than a certain number of ounces of a product that contains opium or certain other controlled substances. This bill changes the reference from ounces to grams.

Under current law, the Barbering and Cosmetology Examining Board (board), which regulates the combined practice of barbering or cosmetology, issues a license called a "barbering or cosmetology establishment license" for establishments where barbering or cosmetology and other related practices may be performed. However, certain existing statutory language refers to a "barber or cosmetologist establishment license" that does not exist under current law. This bill corrects that language so that it references the barbering or cosmetology establishment license that is issued by the board.

Also under current law, the board regulates the practice of aesthetics. Current law defines "aesthetics" as, for compensation, caring for or beautifying the skin of the human body, including cleaning, applying cosmetics, oils, lotions, clay, creams, antiseptics, powders, or tonics to or massaging, stimulating, wrapping, or exercising the skin of the human body. The definition of "barbering or cosmetology" under current law includes in part, for compensation, massaging, cleansing, stimulating, manipulating, wrapping, exercising, beautifying, or applying cosmetic preparations, antiseptics, powders, oils, tonics, clay, or lotion to or performing other similar work upon the skin of any person. However, that definition does not reference the definition of aesthetics.

The bill clarifies that barbering or cosmetology includes aesthetics.

Current law requires every wholesale distributor of a prescription drug to obtain a license from the Pharmacy Examining Board. This law applies to wholesale distributors of oxygen. This bill exempts wholesale distributors of oxygen from the requirement to obtain a license from the Pharmacy Examining Board.

Current law, as affected by 2005 Wisconsin Act 334, requires an applicant to complete two years of postgraduate podiatrist training to be eligible for licensure as a podiatrist. Prior to that act, one year of postgraduate podiatrist training was required. The act first applied to persons submitting applications on June 1, 2010, but did not specify the treatment of those who had completed the one-year training requirement before that date.

This bill clarifies that an applicant who completed one year of postgraduate training in a program approved by the Podiatrist Affiliated Credentialing Board by June 1, 2010, is eligible for licensure as a podiatrist.

Under current law, the Medical Examining Board may refuse to accept a person's voluntary surrender of his or her license if the board has received allegations of unprofessional conduct by the person.

This bill allows a person to voluntarily surrender his or her occupational license, permit, or certificate of certification or registration, but allows the licensing agency to refuse to accept that surrender if the agency has received a complaint against the person or has commenced disciplinary proceedings against the person.

Under current law, a person who applies for a funeral director's license and who is not doing business at a recognized funeral establishment at the time the person submits that application may receive a certificate from the Funeral Directors Examining Board to the effect that the applicant is in good standing as a funeral director. A person who receives a certificate of good standing is entitled to receive a renewal funeral director's license if the person becomes located at a recognized funeral establishment.

This bill eliminates the certificate of good standing.

This bill removes some inconsistencies in current laws regarding the licensure of private detectives, investigators, and security personnel. Currently, persons applying for those licenses must execute and file an approved bond or liability policy with the Department of Safety and Professional Services (department), but are not required to maintain that bond or policy during the period of the licensure. This bill requires the person to maintain that bond or policy during the period of the licensure.

Current law allows the department to revoke, suspend, or limit the license of a private detective, investigator, or security personnel for certain reasons, including the commission of a misdemeanor, but prohibits the issuance of the license only if the person has been convicted of a felony and has not been pardoned. This bill allows, but does not require, the department to refuse to issue a license to a person who has committed an act that would result in the revocation, suspension, or limitation of the license, including the conviction of a misdemeanor or violation of a state or local law that resulted in a forfeiture.

Under a provision of current law, certain statutory requirements regarding real estate practice are applied to cemetery salespersons. This bill clarifies that those statutory requirements also apply to cemetery authorities. In addition, some of those statutory requirements regarding real estate practice, such as the disciplinary procedures for real estate brokers and salespersons, are incorrectly applied to cemetery salespersons. This bill corrects those errors.

Current law refers to the requirements that a person must satisfy to be licensed by the cemetery board to sell cemetery lots. The use of the word "person" has created some confusion because the cemetery board issues licenses only to individuals, not to cemetery authorities. This bill replaces "person" with "individual" to comply with current practice.

This bill also removes a superfluous reference to the department of safety and professional services.

Under current law, the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) is required to promulgate an energy conservation code that sets design requirements for construction and equipment for the purpose of energy conservation in public buildings and places of employment. DSPS must consider incorporating into the energy conservation code design requirements from the most current national energy efficiency design standards, including the International Energy Conservation Code (IECC) or another energy efficiency code that is generally accepted and used by engineers and the construction industry. Current law requires that DSPS review the code on a regular basis, including whenever there is a revision of the IECC, and update the code accordingly.

This bill requires DSPS to incorporate into the energy conservation code a standard that is based upon a specific standard of the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) and eliminates the requirement to use other standards specified under current law. As with the revision requirements under current law, the bill requires DSPS to update the code whenever the ASHRAE standard is revised.

Under ^{DSPS} current law, with certain exceptions, ~~the Department of Commerce~~ ^{Commerce} has authority to regulate places of employment and public buildings in this state in order to protect the life, health, safety, and welfare of the employees and the public who use those places and buildings. Under this authority, ~~Commerce~~ ^{DSPS} promulgates building codes that establish standards for the construction, repair, and maintenance of places of employment and public buildings.

This bill specifies that, when used with relation to building codes, the terms "place of employment" and "public building" do not include home-based businesses.

Under current law, no person may install a private sewage system on his or her property without a valid sanitary permit from the governmental unit responsible for regulating private sewage systems where the property is located. Current law requires the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) to prescribe the information to be included in the sanitary permit and to furnish sanitary permit forms to local governmental units.

This bill eliminates the requirement that DSPS supply sanitary permit forms to local governmental units.

Current law requires a device that dispenses a gasoline-ethanol fuel blend for sale at retail to be marked or labeled with the percentage of ethanol at all times when the product is offered for sale. Current law requires the marking or labeling to use one-half inch high letters with a stroke of not less than one-eighth inch in width.

This bill eliminates the requirements with regard to the lettering used on the marking or labeling.

Under current law, to be eligible to take an examination for a master plumber license, the applicant for the license must have had no less than 1,000 hours per year experience in three or more consecutive years or must be an engineering graduate from a school or college approved by the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS). This bill eliminates the requirement that the three or more years be consecutive.

DSPS may classify master and journeyman plumbers as being restricted as to the type of work they do. A state resident who has a restricted journeyman plumber license may take the examination for a restrictive master plumber license if he or she has been engaged in a restricted type of plumbing work for a period of not less than 1,000 hours per year for two or more consecutive years. This bill eliminates the requirement that the two or more years be consecutive.

Under current law, the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) makes payments to eligible cities, villages, and towns (political subdivisions) for local fire prevention and protection from payments collected from insurers who insure against fire damage in this state. These payments from insurers are often referred to as "fire department dues." A political subdivision must meet certain eligibility criteria in order to receive these payments such as having a fire chief and being able to immediately dispatch fire fighters and equipment. The use of the payment to the political subdivision is limited to activities such as fire inspection, the purchase of equipment, and training of fire fighters.

Beginning with calendar year 2000 and ending with calendar year 2004, the state was required to make these payments to each political subdivision without regard to eligibility of the political subdivision for the payments. This bill repeals this requirement.

Under current law, the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) regulates persons who install or service a piece of refrigeration equipment (refrigeration equipment) that contains ozone-depleting refrigerant (refrigerant). Among other requirements, current law requires a person who installs or services a piece of refrigeration equipment that contains refrigerant to certify that the person does not use the refrigerant for cleaning purposes, transfers the refrigerant to storage containers using approved equipment, and does not knowingly or negligently release the refrigerant to the environment. DSPS also regulates persons who sell used, new, or reclaimed refrigerant. Ozone-depleting refrigerants are also regulated under federal law.

This bill repeals current state law with regard to the regulation of persons who install or service most types of refrigeration equipment that contain refrigerant and with regard to the regulation of most sales of used, new, and reclaimed refrigerant. The bill does not repeal current state law that applies to the regulation of ozone-depleting refrigerant in mobile air conditioners and in trailer refrigeration equipment.

Current law imposes requirements for smoke detectors that must be installed in public residential buildings, one-family and two-family dwellings, and in manufactured homes. One of those requirements is that the smoke detectors be approved by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. This bill provides, instead, that the smoke detectors must bear an Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., listing mark or similar mark from an independent product safety certification organization.

Under current law the Building Inspector Review Board (board) reviews complaints received from persons who are issued a building permit concerning possible incompetent, negligent, or unethical conduct by building inspectors. Current law authorizes the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) to administer license examinations to persons applying to DSPS for master and journeymen plumber licenses and licenses that relate to the design, installation, and maintenance or repair of automatic fire sprinkler systems. DSPS charges fees for these examinations and licenses. Under current law, if an applicant for a license fails to pay a license fee within 30 days after receiving notice that the applicant has passed the examination for the license, DSPS may not issue the license and the applicant again has to take the examination and pay the examination fee. This bill repeals this provision.

Under current law, no person may install a private sewage system on the person's property without a valid sanitary permit issued by the applicable local governmental unit that issues sanitary permits. Current law requires the governmental unit to send a copy of each permit that it issues to the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS). This bill eliminates this requirement and requires that the governmental unit submit to DSPS a period summary of the permits it issues at intervals to be determined by DSPS.

Current law specifies a minimum fee for the issuance of a sanitary permit for private sewage system. It also specifies the amount that a governmental unit ~~must~~ must send with a permit when it forwards a copy of the permit to the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS). However, under current law, DSPS may adjust these fees by rule. This bill eliminates the statutorily specified fees and maintains DSPS' authority to promulgate these fees by rule.

Under current law, there are two statutory sections dealing with the issuance of sanitary permits for private sewage systems. This bill makes nonsubstantive changes to consolidate and reorganize these two statutory sections.

Under current law, the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) issues occupational and professional licenses, registrations, and similar approvals (licenses). Some of these licenses are referred to in specific statutes and others are issued pursuant to DSPS's rule-making authority. Under current law, DSPS may not issue or renew certain licenses that are specifically referred to in the statutes to applicants who are delinquent in family or child support payments or in payment of state taxes. This bill expands the scope of the types of licenses for which issuance or renewal must be denied due to support or tax delinquency to include all of the occupational and professional licenses issued by DSPS.

Under current law, the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) regulates elevators, escalators, and similar conveyances that move people or things. Under current law, contractors and mechanics constructing, altering, replacing, repairing, or otherwise working with these conveyances, and inspectors of these conveyances, must be licensed by DSPS. With certain exceptions, to be licensed as an elevator mechanic, an individual must apply to DSPS and either must complete an apprenticeship program approved by the U.S. Department of Labor or by the Department of Workforce Development or must have sufficient work history during the three years preceding the application in working with these conveyances and have passed an elevator mechanic's examination that is administered by DSPS or that is administered by a nationally recognized training program that is approved by DSPS.

This bill creates alternative requirements that may be met in order to be issued an elevator mechanic's license. Under the bill, an individual is eligible for a license if he or she verifies to DSPS that he or she has successfully completed a four-year training program established by the National Elevator Industry Educational Program or an equivalent four-year training program that is approved by DSPS and that he or she has had a certain level of experience working with elevators and other conveyances. This experience requirement may be met by being employed during each of the five years immediately preceding the date of the license application for at least 1,000 hours as an elevator mechanic, or in another capacity that has allowed him or her to remain familiar with elevator equipment, technology, and industry practices. The experience requirement may alternatively be met by meeting the 1,000-hour requirement in any five years preceding the date of the license application if the applicant verifies that this alternative is due to the applicant's work being disrupted by high unemployment in the elevator industry, military service, illness, disability, or another factor beyond the applicant's control.

Under current law, the Pharmacy Examining Board (board) in the Department of Safety and Professional Services may grant a variance from a law or rule applicable to pharmacists or the practice of pharmacy if each of the following conditions is satisfied: 1) the board determines that a natural or man-made disaster or emergency exists or has occurred; 2) a pharmacist has requested the variance; and 3) the board determines that the variance is necessary to protect the public health, safety, or welfare. This bill adds as another condition that the law or rule either permits a variance or requires approval from the board prior to obtaining a variance.

Current law grants authority to the Examining Board of Architects, Landscape Architects, Professional Engineers, Designers, and Land Surveyors (examining board), located in the Department of Safety and Professional Services, to regulate the practice of architecture, the practice of landscape architecture, the practice of professional engineering, the practice of designing, and the practice of land surveying by individuals and corporate entities. This bill makes a number of changes to current law to clarify that separate architect, landscape architect, professional engineer, designer, and land surveyor sections of the examining board exercise exclusive authority over the separate professions.

Current law permits the examining board to reprimand an architect, landscape architect, or professional engineer or limit, suspend, or revoke the certificate of registration of any registrant, and the certificate of record of any engineer-in-training, who is found guilty of any violation of the rules of professional conduct promulgated by the examining board. Current law also permits the examining board, subject to rules promulgated by the examining board, to issue a new certificate of registration, certificate of record, or certificate of authorization, to replace any certificate that is revoked, lost, destroyed, or mutilated. Current law does not, however, explicitly grant authority to the examining board or to any section of the examining board to promulgate rules. This bill grants explicit authority to each section of the examining board to promulgate rules governing the professional conduct of individuals, firms, partnerships, and corporations registered, permitted, certified, or granted a certificate of authorization by that section.

Under current law, the Nursing Home Administrator Examining Board, the Board of Nursing, and the Dentistry Examining Board, each of which is in the Department of Safety and Professional Services, are authorized to conduct disciplinary hearings and make investigations of individuals licensed or certified by the specific board. Also under current law, under certain circumstances, each board may revoke, limit, or suspend a license or certificate issued by that board or deny the renewal of a license or certificate granted by that board. Current law prohibits an individual licensed as a marriage and family therapist, social worker, or professional counselor by the Marriage and Family Therapy, Professional Counseling, and Social Work Examining Board in the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) from using the titles "alcohol and drug counselor" or "chemical dependency counselor" unless the individual is also certified through a separate certification process established by DSPS. This bill eliminates that prohibition.

 ANALYSIS FROM -3291/P1 *****

Under current law, the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) may conduct investigations, hold hearings, and make findings to determine whether a person has engaged in a practice or used a professional title without a required credential. If, after holding a hearing, DSPS determines that the person does not have the appropriate credential, DSPS may issue a special order prohibiting the person from continuing the practice or using the title. DSPS may issue a temporary restraining order in lieu of holding a hearing if DSPS has reason to believe that the person has engaged in a practice or used a title without a required credential. If a person against whom a special order has been issued violates that order, the person is subject to forfeitures. If a person against whom a temporary restraining order has been issued violates that order, the person is subject to fines or imprisonment or both.

Current law also authorizes certain boards, affiliated credentialing boards, and examining boards attached to DSPS, including the Board of Nursing, the Podiatry Affiliated Credentialing Board, and the Medical Examining Board, to fine or imprison, or both, persons who violate laws or regulations applicable to the professions regulated by those boards.

This bill clarifies that the authority granted to DSPS to impose fines or forfeitures against or imprison a person who has engaged in a practice or used a title without holding the appropriate credential is separate from and in addition to the authority granted to the various boards to enforce the laws and regulations applicable to the professions regulated by those boards.

Current law requires every person who is licensed by the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) to sell manufactured homes to consumers to carry his or her license when engaged in his or her business and to display the license upon request. Current law also requires the licensee's employer to be named on the license. Current law specifies that if the licensee changes employers, then the licensee must immediately mail the license to DSPS so that DSPS can endorse the change on the license. This bill eliminates the requirement that the licensee mail his or her license to DSPS when the licensee changes employers and the requirement that DSPS endorse that change on the license.

Under current law, the membership of the Council on Physician Assistants (council) in the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) must include the vice chancellor for health sciences of the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Under this bill, the council position reserved for the vice chancellor is replaced with a position to be filled by the Medical Examining Board (board) in DSPS. The board must select a person who teaches physician assistants, and that person serves a four-year term.

Under current law, members of the council serve two-year terms. This bill changes the terms of all members of the council to four years.

Under current law, the Dwelling Code Council (council) reviews the standards and rules for the construction of one-family and two-family dwellings (dwellings) and for modular homes and recommends a uniform dwelling code and a statewide modular home code for adoption by the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS). The codes must include rules providing for the conservation of energy in the construction and maintenance of dwellings and modular homes. The council is required to study the need for and availability of dwellings that are accessible to persons with disabilities and make recommendations to DSPS for any changes to the uniform dwelling code that may be needed to ensure an adequate supply of dwellings. Upon its own initiative, or at the request of DSPS, the council must consider and make recommendations to DSPS with regard to the rules that DSPS is authorized to promulgate concerning the construction of dwellings and concerning modular homes.

Current law requires that the council have 18 members and that each member serve a three-year term. Of those members, current law requires a specified number of members to represent certain interest groups, including building trade labor organizations, certified building inspectors, building contractors, and members of the public. This bill reduces the membership of the council from 18 to seven members. The bill provides that each member must represent at least one of the interest groups for which representation on the council is required under current law, but does not require that each interest group be represented on the council. The bill also reduces the terms of the members from three-year terms to two-year terms.
