Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

BILL SUMMARY

This bill creates a registration category for trailers weighing more than 12,000 pounds but not more than 14,000 pounds. Under the amended proposal, these trailers may be registered for a fee that is the average of the fees prescribed for motor trucks weighing 12,000 pounds and 16,000 pounds, which under current law is a fee of $246.

ASSUMPTIONS

Current trailer registration levels:

12000 pounds: 16,757

16000 pounds: 5,584

Trailer Registration costs:

12000 pounds: $104.50

14000 pounds: $246.00 (proposed)

16000 pounds: $283.00

Revenue impact of re-registering:

Moving up (12K to 14K): $141.50 revenue gain

Moving down (16K to 14K): $37 revenue loss

FISCAL EFFECT

The creation of a new weight category for trailer plates will require a projected $5,600 for programming costs. Establishing an initial plate inventory will require an additional $200 for total one-time costs of $5,800.

It is difficult to anticipate exactly how many trailers will be re-registered and if they will move up or down in weight, as there is now way for DMV to accurately predict customer behavior. However, DMV believes that customers wishing to operate at 14,000 pounds are more likely currently registered at 16,000 pounds, so the bill will likely cause a higher percentage of registrants to lower their weight class than to increase their weight class.

The following is an illustration of the revenue impact if 25% of those currently registered at 12,000 pounds moved up in registration and 50% currently registered at 16,000 pounds moved down in registration:

25% moving from 12000 to 14000:

$16,757 * .25 = 4,189$

$4,189 * $141.50 = $592,779$ revenue gain.

50% moving from 16000 to 14000:

$5,584 * .5 = 2,792$

$2,792 * $37 = $103,304$ revenue loss.

Projected net revenue gain under this scenario: $489,474
