It is possible that a quorum of the committee will be present. Attendance will not be kept and no votes of the Committee will be taken.

Biogas Informational Symposium

This symposium will describe biogas, a renewable fuel similar to natural gas, and the biogas systems that convert manure, food processing byproducts and other wastes into a wide range of valuable fuels and products. Wisconsin is already leading the country in farm-based biogas systems using dairy manure, but has only scratched the surface of the potential use of biogas systems to manage wastes for existing industries, produce valuable and cost-effective renewable energy and put Wisconsin's manufacturing expertise to work in an expanding sector. DATCP Secretary Ben Brancel will start the program and describe the potential benefits of biogas systems for Wisconsin's agriculture industry. DATCP and SEO biogas specialists will then provide an overview of Wisconsin's successful application of biogas systems across the state and the emerging opportunities for biogas systems. Representatives from some of Wisconsin's leading biogas businesses will then share their experiences saving money, producing energy, and building employment in diverse industries across the state. Speakers will be available for a question and answer session at the end of the program.
