Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the Department of Public Instruction (DPI) must prepare a school and school district performance report for public schools in this state. The report must include various indicators of pupil academic achievement as well as other indicators of performance.

This bill requires DPI to prepare a report for private schools that are participating in a parental choice program (PCP) as well as for public schools. The school performance report for a private school participating in a PCP must be based only on data relating to the pupils attending the private school under the PCP.

Under current law, if DPI determines that a public school or school district has been in need of improvement for a specified period or ranks in the lowest five percent, the school board must engage in certain specified activities designed to improve the performance of the school or school district. If a public school or school district is determined to be in need of improvement for a longer period, DPI may direct the school board to take certain actions, such as implementing a new curriculum, implementing changes in administrative and personnel structures, or implementing a new or modified instructional design.

This bill modifies the current accountability system for schools. For school districts, the bill makes the directed improvements and interventions mandatory after three years of being in need of improvement instead of after four years.

The bill directs DPI to establish a comprehensive school accountability system beginning in the 2012-13 school year. The system covers public schools, including charter schools, and private schools that are participating in a PCP.

The bill requires that the system include all of the following components:

1. Multiple measures to determine performance, including pupil achievement and growth in reading and mathematics; measures of college and career readiness; and gaps in pupil achievement and rates of graduation, categorized by race, English language proficiency, disability, and income.

2. An index system to identify a school's level of performance and annually place each school into one of six performance categories. The bill requires DPI and each school board, charter school, and parental choice program school to publicize the performance category to which it has been assigned.

3. The production of annual school and school district reports.

Under the new accountability system, if DPI determines that a public school (other than a charter school) is in the lowest performance category, DPI must direct a diagnostic review of the school. Based on the review, DPI must direct the school board to choose to either implement DPI-approved improvement activities or close the school. If the school board chooses to implement the improvement activities, but after three years remains in the lowest performance category, DPI must direct certain specified activities, including annual performance evaluations and the establishment of teacher and principal improvement programs.

If DPI determines that a charter school is in the lowest performance category, the charter school must either implement DPI-approved improvement activities and improve its performance ranking within three years or risk having its charter revoked, or enter into a performance agreement with DPI in which the charter school agrees to meet annual, DPI-approved, performance benchmarks. If the school chooses the latter option and misses a benchmark in any year, DPI must revoke the school's charter. (The bill requires that every charter school's charter include a provision authorizing DPI to revoke the school's charter under these circumstances.)

If DPI determines that a private school participating in a PCP is in the lowest category, it must proceed as described above for charter schools except that, instead of revocation of the school's charter, the private school may be barred from participating in a PCP.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
