Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the Higher Educational Aids Board (HEAB) administers various financial assistance programs to assist teachers. Those programs include programs under which HEAB provides loans to college students and then forgives a certain amount of those loans after the loan recipient has been employed as a teacher in the Milwaukee Public Schools, as a teacher of visually impaired pupils or as an orientation and mobility instructor in this state, or as a teacher in a school district in this state in which minority students constitute at least 29 percent of the membership of the school district.

This bill creates a rural teacher grant program (grant program), to be administered by HEAB, to encourage eligible teachers, as defined in the bill, to teach in schools operated by eligible school districts, as defined in the bill. Under the bill, 1) an “eligible school district” is a school district whose membership in the school year preceding the school year for which a grant is awarded under the grant program divided by the school district’s area in square miles is less than ten; and 2) an “eligible teacher” is a teacher who teaches in a school operated by an eligible school district.

The bill requires HEAB to grant financial assistance to an eligible teacher who is nominated by his or her school district for participation in the grant program and who submits a claim for that financial assistance after each year in which the eligible
