Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

The State Public Defender (SPD) is statutorily authorized and required to appoint attorneys to represent indigent defendants in criminal and certain commitment proceedings. The SPD plays a critical role in ensuring that the Wisconsin justice system complies with the right to counsel provided by both the state and federal constitutions. Any legislation has the potential to increase SPD costs if it creates a new criminal offense, expands the definition of an existing criminal offense, or increases the penalties for an existing offense.

Under this bill, a person may not have his or her probation or release to parole or extended supervision revoked solely because he or she fails to pay a supervision fee or restitution.

The fiscal impact to the SPD is not quantifiable. It could result in a slight decrease in costs in providing legal representation in revocation proceedings. The cost for a private bar attorney to provide representation in a revocation hearing was $294.04 in fiscal year 2014.

This bill could also have a fiscal impact on counties. There are some defendants who, despite exceeding the SPD's statutory financial guidelines, are constitutionally eligible for appointment of counsel because it would be a substantial hardship for them to retain an attorney. The court is required to appoint counsel at county expense for these defendants. The counties see a reduction in costs based on the provisions of this bill.

Long-Range Fiscal Implications
