Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill creates an Internet crimes against children surcharge. Under the bill, if a court imposes a sentence on a person or places a person on probation for committing a crime, the court imposes a surcharge of $20 for each misdemeanor conviction and $40 for each felony conviction. Under the bill, the Department of Justice uses the moneys received from the surcharge to fund the activities of task forces on Internet crimes against children, and to fund criminal investigations, law enforcement, and prosecutions relating to Internet crimes against children.

The bill also authorizes the attorney general or his or her designee to issue an administrative subpoena to a provider of an electronic communication service or remote computing service that would compel the provider to produce documents or records helpful to an investigation of an Internet crime against a child. The bill allows the person issued the subpoena to motion a circuit court to limit or quash the subpoena and allows the attorney general or his or her designee to request that the subpoena be kept confidential until after all requested documents and records are produced.
