Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill broadens the authority of the Department of Public Instruction to bar from participation in a parental choice program a private school that hires or retains a disqualified person. The bill also modifies the definition of disqualified person to include the following persons: 1) a person for whom a license to operate a child care center was denied, revoked, suspended, not renewed, or not continued; 2) a person who has been convicted of, or pled guilty or no contest to, a crime involving an act of fraud or dishonesty against an agency or political subdivision of this state or against a federal agency; and 3) a person who would not be eligible under current law to be employed or licensed as a teacher for reasons including conviction of a felony for a crime against life or bodily security or public health and safety.

Current law permits DPI to issue an order that bars a private school from participating in a parental choice program or that terminates the participation of a private school in a parental choice program under certain circumstances, including if the school misrepresents information, fails to maintain accreditation or meet certain academic standards, or retains a disqualified person. Under current law, a “disqualified person” is one who satisfied one of the following at the time that a private school was barred or terminated from a parental choice program by an order of the department: 1) the person had a controlling ownership interest in, or was the administrator or an officer, director, or trustee of, the private school; 2) the person was designated by the administrator of the private school to assist in processing pupil applications; or 3) the person was responsible for an action or circumstance that led to the private school being barred or terminated from participation in the program.

Currently, DPI may bar the participation of a private school in a choice program if the private school retains, for compensation or as a volunteer, a disqualified person within seven years after the date of an order issued by DPI. This bill eliminates the seven-year limit on the person's status as a disqualified person; as a result, DPI may bar from participation in a parental choice program a private school that hires or retains a disqualified person regardless of the amount of time that has passed since the person engaged in the disqualifying activity.
