Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 2. 16.297 of the statutes is created to read:

16.297 Grants for local government expenditures; moral obligation pledge. (1) DEFINITIONS. In this section:

(a) "Local governmental unit" means a city, village, town, or county that contains any part of an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone designated under s. 238.396 (1m).

(b) "Municipal obligation" has the meaning given in s. 67.01 (6).

(1m) GRANTS. From the appropriation under s. 20.505 (1) (fr), the department may make one or more grants to a local governmental unit for the local governmental unit's expenditures for costs the department determines are associated with development occurring in an electronics and information technology manufacturing and, in connection with that zone, authorizing certain tax benefits, creating special provisions for tax incremental districts; creating exemptions from wetland and waterway permits and Public Service Commission certificates;

1 zone designated under s. 238.396 (1m), including costs related to infrastructure and
2 public safety.

3 (2) MATCH. The department may require a local governmental unit to match
4 in whole or in part a grant the department makes to the local governmental unit
5 under sub. (1m).

6 (2m) CONTRACT. The secretary may contract with a local governmental unit to 7 implement subs. (1m) and (2). ✓

8 (3) MORAL OBLIGATION PLEDGE. (a) Recognizing its moral obligation to do so, the 9 legislature expresses its expectation and aspiration that, if ever called upon to do so,
10 it shall make an appropriation to pay the principal and interest of a local 11 governmental unit's municipal obligations, if all of the following apply:

12 1. The local governmental unit's municipal obligation is issued to finance costs 13 related to development occurring in or for the benefit of an electronics and 14 information technology manufacturing zone designated under s. 238.396 (1m).

15 2. The secretary designates the moral obligation pledge for the local 16 governmental unit's municipal obligation before the municipal obligation is issued, 17 based on a plan that the local governmental unit shall submit to the department on 18 a form prescribed by the department.

19 (b) No more than 40 percent of a local governmental unit's aggregate municipal 20 obligations under par. (a) shall be subject to the moral obligation pledge under that 21 paragraph.

22 (c) The proceeds of municipal obligations issued by a local governmental unit
23 under this subsection shall be used to finance costs related to development occurring
24 in or for the benefit of an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone
25 designated under s. 238.396 (1m). The legislature determines that the provision of

1 assistance by state agencies to a local governmental unit under this section, any
2 appropriation of funds to a local governmental unit under this section, and the moral 3 obligation pledge under par. (a) serve a substantial statewide public purpose by 4 assisting the development of an electronics and information technology
5 manufacturing zone in the state, by encouraging economic development, by reducing 6 unemployment, and by bringing needed capital into the state for the benefit and 7 welfare of people throughout the state. ✓

1 incremental district created under this section but not under this subsection, that
2 findings requirement may not include the value increment of the district created 3 under this subsection, provided that the district created under this subsection has 4 not terminated.

5 (c) Expenditures. With regard to a tax incremental district described under this 6 subsection, and subject to par. (ce), the creating city may incur project costs for any 7 of the following, provided that the expenditures benefit the district:

12 expenditures do not exceed, over the district's lifetime, 15 percent of the total positive
13 tax increments received by the creating city over the district's lifetime. With regard

17 may be made only for fire stations located within a one-mile radius of the electronics
18 and information technology manufacturing zone that is designated under s. 238.396
19 (1m).

20 (ce) Certification. Before the creating city may incur project costs for any 21 territory that is located outside the district but in the same county as the district, the 22 city must obtain certification from the department of administration that the 13 conduct substantially the same business outside the zone.

14 3. Ceases operations in the electronics and information technology
15 manufacturing zone and does not renew operation of the business or a similar 16 business in the zone within 12 months.

17 (b) The corporation may require a business to repay any tax benefits the 18 business claims for a year in which the business failed to maintain employment
19 levels or a significant capital investment in property required by an agreement

ELECTRONICS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY MANUFACTURING ZONE

This substitute amendment authorizes the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation to create not more than one electronics and information technology manufacturing zone.

Tax credits

Under the substitute amendment, WEDC may certify certain businesses to claim income and franchise tax credits if a business begins operations in the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone. WEDC may certify such a business for additional income and franchise tax credits, subject to certain limitations, if the business makes a significant capital expenditure in the zone. If the amount of the credit exceeds the taxpayer's tax liability, the taxpayer receives a refund equal to the excess amount. The total amount of all tax credits WEDC may certify under the substitute amendment is $2,850,000,000. WEDC may seek repayment of tax credits under circumstances specified in the substitute amendment, and WEDC must revoke a certification to claim tax credits if a certified business does any of the following:

1. Supplies false or misleading information to obtain the tax credits.
2. Leaves the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone to conduct substantially the same business outside the zone.
3. Ceases operations in the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone and does not renew operation of the business or a similar business in the zone within 12 months.

Sales and use tax exemption

The substitute amendment creates a sales and use tax exemption for the sale of building materials, supplies, and equipment used to construct facilities located in an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone if the capital expenditures for constructing the facilities may be claimed as income and franchise tax credits as certified by WEDC.

Tax incremental financing districts

The substitute amendment creates special provisions that apply to certain tax incremental financing districts (TIDs) if WEDC creates an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone, and a city or village creates a TID that includes the zone.

Under the current tax incremental financing program, a city or village may create a TID in part of its territory to foster development under certain conditions. Currently, towns and counties also have a limited ability to create a TID under certain limited circumstances. Before a city or village may create a TID, several steps and plans are required. These steps and plans include public hearings on the proposed TID within specified time frames, adoption of a resolution, submission of documents to the Department of Revenue within specified time frames, and the preparation and adoption by the local planning commission of a proposed project plan for the TID.

Generally, if a resolution creating a TID is adopted between January 2 and September 30, the TID is considered to have been created on the previous January 1, and if a resolution creating a TID is adopted between October 1 and December 31, its creation date is considered to be the following January 1. In addition, forms required by DOR must be submitted to the department by October 31 of the year in which the TID is created.

Also under current law, once a TID has been created, DOR calculates the "tax incremental base" value of the TID, which is the equalized value of all taxable property within the TID at the time of its creation. If the development in the TID increases the value of the property in the TID above the base value, a value increment is created. That portion of taxes collected on the value increment in excess of the base value is called a "tax increment" and is placed in a fund that may be used only to pay back the project costs of the TID.

The project costs of a TID, which are initially incurred by the creating city or village, include public works such as sewers, streets, and lighting systems; financing costs; site preparation costs; and professional service costs. DOR authorizes the allocation of the tax increments until the TID terminates or, generally, 20 years, 23 years, or 27 years after the TID is created, depending on the type of TID and the year in which it was created. Also under current law, a city or village may not generally make expenditures for project costs later than five years before the unextended termination date of the TID. Under certain circumstances, the life of the TID, the expenditure period, and the allocation period may be extended.

Generally, under current law, expenditures for project costs must be spent within the boundaries of the TID, although limited exceptions allow expenditures to be made within a one-half mile radius of the TID's boundaries. Also, with regard to TIDs created after September 30, 2004, the territory of which is mostly suitable for industrial sites or mixed-use development, the TIDs must generally terminate not later than 20 years after their creation.

Subject to a number of exceptions, under current law, the equalized value of taxable property of a new or amended TID plus the value increment of all existing TIDs may not exceed 12 percent of the total equalized value of taxable property in the city or village.

Under this substitute amendment, for TIDs that are created in an area that includes an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone (zone), a number of exceptions apply to the normal provisions that apply to TIDs, including the following:

- 1. The TID that is created must be an industrial site or mixed-use TID.
- 2. If the resolution creating the TID is adopted between January 1 and December 1, the creating city or village may decide if the TID is considered to have been created on the January 1 of the year in which the resolution is adopted or on the following January 1, and the forms required by DOR must be submitted before December 31 of the year in which the resolution is adopted or between the following April 1 and the following December 1, depending on the TID's creation date.

3. The 12 percent rule regarding the total equalized value for taxable property in the city or village does not apply to the creation of the TID that includes a zone, and if the creating city or village then creates another TID, the value increment of the TID that includes the zone is not included in the calculation under the 12 percent rule for that new TID.

4. Subject to a number of limitations, the city or village creating the TID may incur expenditures for project costs for any territory that is located in the same county in which the TID is located, provided ~~the expenditure benefits the TID~~, and may incur project costs for fire stations, police and fire equipment, and general government operations.

that

5. Instead of limiting to 20 years the period during which DOR may allocate positive tax increments, the allocation period is 30 years.

~~that~~

6. Instead of requiring the TID to terminate no later than 20 years after creation, the TID must terminate within 30 years after it is created.

FIVE

7. Instead of limiting the time period during which expenditures may be made to no later than ~~20~~ ⁵ years before the termination date of the TID, expenditures may be made up to the termination date.

County bonding

The substitute amendment authorizes a county in which a zone is located to issue bonds whose principal and interest are paid only through sales and use tax revenue. Currently, such county debt may be paid only by property tax revenue. Also under current law, county sales tax revenue may be used only for the purpose of directly reducing the county property tax levy.

Town incorporation as a city or village

STET

Once residents of a town file with the circuit court, or the town clerk, a petition to incorporate as a city or village, and once certain town boards initiate a procedure to incorporate as a village, the substitute amendment prohibits any city or village from annexing any of that town's territory until 30 days after the petition is dismissed, all appeals of the petition dismissal are exhausted, or an incorporation referendum is held in the town.

The substitute amendment also authorizes a town that is adjacent to a city or village that contains a zone to incorporate as a city or village if the town approves an incorporation referendum. None of the current law procedures, including hearings, circuit court review, and incorporation review board analysis, apply to such a town's incorporation procedure.

Environmental impact statements

Under current law, all state agencies are required to prepare environmental impact statements for every recommendation or report on proposals for legislation and other major actions significantly affecting the quality of the human environment. A state agency is required to consider an environmental impact statement in its decision-making process, but the statement has no regulatory consequence. Current federal law under the National Environmental Policy Act also requires federal agencies to prepare an environmental impact statement for any major federal action, including for federal permits that are necessary for actions in the state. Under the substitute amendment, a determination regarding the issuance of any permit or approval for a new manufacturing facility within an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone is not a major action for the purpose of the environmental impact statement requirement.

Wetlands and waterway permits exemption

Under federal law, activities involving the discharge of dredged or fill material into “navigable waters” must comply with certain guidelines contained in regulations promulgated by the federal Environmental Protection Agency in order for a discharge permit to be issued by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (ACE). Before ACE may issue a permit, the Department of Natural Resources must determine that the project complies with state water quality standards, including those for wetlands (water quality certification). Federal law defines “navigable waters” to be “the waters of the United States.” Generally, courts have interpreted “the waters of the United States” to exclude nonnavigable, isolated, intrastate waters (nonfederal wetlands).

Under current state law, subject to exceptions, no person may discharge dredged material or fill material into a federal or nonfederal wetland unless the discharge is authorized by a wetland general permit or individual permit, or the discharge is exempt from permitting requirements. Current law requires DNR to issue wetland general permits for discharges of dredged or fill material into certain federal and nonfederal wetlands. For a discharge into a wetland that is not authorized under a wetland general permit, current law requires a person to apply for and obtain a wetland individual permit. Before DNR may issue a wetland individual permit, it must require the restoration, enhancement, creation, or preservation of other wetlands to compensate for adverse impacts to a wetland resulting from the discharge, also known as mitigation. Under current law, a wetland general or individual permit issued by DNR constitutes water quality certification.

Under this substitute amendment, a person may, without a permit, discharge dredged material or fill material into a nonfederal wetland that is located in an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone if the discharge is related to the construction, access, or operation of a new manufacturing facility that is also located in the zone. With respect to a federal wetland located in an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone, the substitute amendment provides that no state permit is required and that the state waives water quality certification. Under the substitute amendment, a federal permit for such a discharge is still required. The substitute amendment requires any adverse impacts to functional values of federal or nonfederal wetlands in an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone to be compensated at a ratio of two acres per each acre impacted through the purchase of credits from a mitigation bank, participation in the in lieu fee subprogram or escrow subprogram administered by DNR, or completion of mitigation within this state. Under current law, the general minimum ratio is 1.2 acres for each acre affected by the discharge. If compensation occurs through participation in the in lieu fee subprogram, the substitute amendment requires DNR to identify and consider mitigation that could be conducted within the same watershed and authorizes locating mitigation outside the watershed only upon agreement of DNR and the person exempt from wetland permitting.

Under current law, subject to exceptions, no person may do any of the following without a permit issued by DNR: 1) deposit any material or place any structure upon the bed of any navigable water where no bulkhead line has been established or beyond a lawfully established bulkhead line; 2) construct or maintain a bridge or construct, place, or maintain a culvert in, on, or over navigable waters; 3) construct, dredge, or enlarge any artificial water body that connects with an existing navigable waterway; 4) construct or enlarge any part of an artificial water body that is or will be located within 500 feet of the ordinary high-water mark of, but that does not or will not connect with, an existing navigable waterway; 5) grade or remove topsoil from the bank of any navigable waterway where the area exposed by the grading or removal will exceed 10,000 square feet; ~~and~~ ^{or} 6) change the course of or straighten a navigable stream.

Under the substitute amendment, DNR generally may not require a permit for any of these activities if they relate to the construction, access, or operation of a new manufacturing facility located in an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone. However, the substitute amendment provides that DNR may require a permit for the construction or maintenance of bridges and the construction or placement and maintenance of culverts ^{if} DNR determines that conditions specific to the site require restrictions in order to prevent significant adverse impacts to the public rights and interests, environmental pollution, or material injury to the riparian rights of any riparian owner.

in a zone

Department of Natural Resources oversight

Except as otherwise specifically provided, the substitute amendment requires DNR to ensure that the conditions of applicable permits, licenses, and approvals under DNR's jurisdiction are met for all activities related to the construction, access, or operation of a new manufacturing facility within an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone, including permits, licenses, and approvals required under current law and any associated rules promulgated by DNR.

Public Service Commission certificates and market-based rates

This substitute amendment exempts public utility projects that primarily serve a new customer within an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone from obtaining a certificate of authority from the Public Service Commission, which current law generally requires for construction, improvement, and other projects of public utilities. The substitute amendment also exempts transmission line relocations within such a zone from obtaining a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the PSC, which current law generally requires before beginning construction of high-voltage transmission lines and associated facilities.

The substitute amendment also requires an electric public utility that provides service to an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone to file tariffs with the PSC for market-based pricing and options for a new retail customer within the zone that the PSC determines is eligible for the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone credit created by the bill. The substitute amendment requires the tariffs to be filed no later than January 1, 2020.

substitute amendment

The substitute amendment specifies requirements that must be included in the tariffs and requires the PSC to approve rates that are consistent with those requirements.

Grants to local governments

This substitute amendment authorizes the Department of Administration to make grants to local governmental units for costs associated with development in an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone, including costs related to infrastructure and public safety. DOA may require a local governmental unit to match a grant in whole or in part.

CONTINGENT HIGHWAY BONDING AUTHORIZATION

This substitute amendment authorizes the state to contract up to $252,400,000 in general obligation public debt for the I 94 north-south corridor project. The Department of Transportation, however, may not expend the proceeds of these bonds unless the state receives an award of federal moneys for the project and the joint committee on finance approves the expenditure.

DESIGN-BUILD CONSTRUCTION

This substitute amendment authorizes a city or village in which an electronics and information technology manufacturing zone is located to contract for the acquisition of water and sewer systems and wastewater treatment facilities, using the design-build system. Under this system, the city or village invites developers to submit proposals to provide completed projects in these areas without following the bidding requirements for public works projects that would otherwise apply. Current law authorizes the use of this system by any city, village, or county for the acquisition of recycling or resource recovery facilities.

ENTERPRISE ZONES

Under current law, WEDC may designate areas within the state as "enterprise zones." WEDC may certify a business in an enterprise zone to receive income and franchise tax credits if the business creates or retains jobs in the enterprise zone, subject to several limitations. The substitute amendment makes the following changes to the enterprise zone tax credit program:

1. Authorizes WEDC to increase from 30 to 35 the number of designated enterprise zones.
2. Authorizes WEDC to cancel the designation of an enterprise zone if WEDC revokes all certifications for tax credits within the zone. WEDC may designate a new enterprise zone if it cancels an existing zone designation.
3. Authorizes WEDC to designate a new enterprise zone if an existing enterprise zone expires. Under current law, an enterprise zone designation expires after 12 years.
4. Authorizes WEDC to certify for enterprise zone tax credits a financial services technology business that, after completing a competitive corporate relocation process, retains its corporate headquarters and at least 93 percent of its full-time employees, as determined by WEDC, in Wisconsin.

Creates

NEW POSITIONS RELATED TO ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

This substitute amendment ^{Creates} an economic development liaison project position in the unclassified service of the state civil service. The substitute amendment also requires WEDC to hire a full-time employee to be known as the electronics manufacturing small business development director. The director's duties include coordinating with the economic development liaison in the department of administration and providing outreach to local economic development organizations. Both of those positions sunset as of December 31, 2022.

WORKER TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM

This substitute amendment requires the Department of Workforce Development to allocate funding in the 2019-21 fiscal biennium for a program to facilitate worker training and employment. In implementing the program, DWD is required to consult the Technical College System Board and WEDC.

ELECTRONICS AND INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY MANUFACTURING ZONE

This substitute amendment authorizes the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation to create not more than one electronics and information technology manufacturing zone.

Tax credits

Under the substitute amendment, WEDC may certify certain businesses to claim income and franchise tax credits if a business begins operations in the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone. WEDC may certify such a business for additional income and franchise tax credits, subject to certain limitations, if the business makes a significant capital expenditure in the zone. If the amount of the credit exceeds the taxpayer's tax liability, the taxpayer receives a refund equal to the excess amount. The total amount of all tax credits WEDC may certify under the substitute amendment is $2,850,000,000. WEDC may seek repayment of tax credits under circumstances specified in the substitute amendment, and WEDC must revoke a certification to claim tax credits if a certified business does any of the following:

1. Supplies false or misleading information to obtain the tax credits.
2. Leaves the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone to conduct substantially the same business outside the zone.
3. Ceases operations in the electronics and information technology manufacturing zone and does not renew operation of the business or a similar business in the zone within 12 months.
