Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Currently, the state minimum wage law requires that employers pay the applicable minimum wage set in statute to their employees. Under that law, the current minimum wage for employees generally is $7.25 per hour. This bill raises the minimum wage for employees generally as follows:

Minimum wage on effective date	$8.50 per hour
Minimum wage one year after effective date	$10 per hour
Minimum wage two years after effective date	$11.50 per hour
Minimum wage three years after effective date	$13 per hour

ASSEMBLY BILL 814

Minimum wage four years after effective date      $14 per hour

Minimum wage five years after effective date      $15 per hour

Beginning six years after the bill's effective date, the bill requires the Department of Workforce Development annually to promulgate rules revising the minimum wages established under the bill by determining the percentage difference between the consumer price index for the preceding 12-month period (year) and the consumer price index for the year before the preceding year, adjusting the minimum wages then in effect by that percentage difference, and rounding that result to the nearest multiple of five cents. DWD, however, is not required to revise the general minimum wage if the consumer price index for the preceding year has not increased over the consumer price index for the year before the preceding year.

The bill also repeals 1) provisions establishing a separate, lower minimum wage for tipped employees; 2) a provision that requires DWD to promulgate rules governing the counting of tips or similar gratuities toward payment of the minimum wage; and 3) provisions setting specific meal and lodging allowances. In addition, the bill repeals provisions establishing minimum wages for minor employees, opportunity employees, agricultural employees, and others and instead requires DWD to establish the minimum wage for those employees by rule.

Finally, current law prohibits a city, village, town, or county from enacting and administering an ordinance establishing a minimum wage. This bill eliminates that prohibition.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
