reports for neighborhood improvement districts, and changes to certain notifications for both types of districts.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau Under current law, based on the receipt of a petition from certain business owners in a designated area of a city, village, or town (municipality), a municipality may create a business improvement district (BID), which consists of contiguous parcels of land. A BID is governed by a board, whose members are appointed by the creating municipality’s chief executive officer (mayor, city manager, village president, or town board chair). The board is required to adopt an initial operating plan for the BID, and may make changes to the operating plan each year, subject to the approval of the municipality’s governing body.
Also under current law, a municipality may create a neighborhood improvement district (NID), upon being petitioned to do so by an owner of real property that is located in the proposed NID, if a number of steps are taken. In general, a NID is an area within a municipality consisting of parcels that are nearby to one another, but not necessarily contiguous, at least some of which are used for residential purposes and are subject to general real estate taxes, and also may include property that is acquired and owned by the NID board. A NID is governed by a board, whose members are elected. A municipality may adopt an initial operating plan for the NID, and the board may annually make changes to the operating plan, subject to the approval of the municipality’s governing body.

The creating municipality may impose special assessments on the property in a BID or a NID, and may appropriate other money to such districts. All such funds must be placed in a segregated account. Generally, the funds in the account must be spent for the benefit of the BID or NID to put into effect its operating plan, and to pay for certain required audits. Generally, the boards determine how such funds are spent. The creating municipality may terminate such districts by following certain procedures that are specified in the statutes.

Also under current law, the state, regional planning commissions, federally recognized Indian tribes and bands, and local units of government, including municipalities, counties, school districts, and other special purpose districts, may enter into intergovernmental cooperation agreements for the receipt or furnishing of services or joint exercise of powers. As part of an intergovernmental cooperation agreement, these units of government may create a commission to perform the service or exercise the joint power.

Subject to a number of conditions, this bill authorizes two or more municipalities to create a single multijurisdictional BID (MJBID). The conditions include a requirement that the district’s borders contain contiguous territory in all of the municipalities that are party to the agreement creating the MJBID. An MJBID is governed by a single board whose members are appointed by the chief executive officers of each of the municipalities that are part of a MJBID, and confirmed by all the relevant local legislative bodies. All actions taken by the board that require local legislative body approval, however, must be approved by all the relevant local legislative bodies. If one or more such body does not approve within approximately six months of the first approval of a local legislative body, the district must terminate.

Under the bill, each municipality that is a part of the MJBID must impose, collect, and deposit into its own municipal treasury all special assessments or other funds that relate to properties that are located within its own jurisdiction. Also under the bill, each municipality that is a part of the MJBID must provide any required notices to all property owners whose property is located within its own jurisdiction.

With regard to a BID, current law requires a board that had a cash balance of less than $300,000 at all times during the prior fiscal year to include a reviewed financial statement in its public annual report. If the cash balance equals or exceeds $300,000 at any time during the prior fiscal year, the BID is required to include an independent certified audit in its annual report. The reviewed financial statement must be prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and include a review of the financial statement by an independent certified public accountant.

Current law requires a NID’s board to include an independent certified audit in its mandatory public annual report describing the current status of the NID, irrespective of the cash balance in the NID’s segregated account. This bill makes the financial statement and audit requirements that currently apply to a BID apply in the same way to a NID.

Finally, for BIDs and NIDs, the bill changes the requirement that certain notices be sent by certified mail to a requirement that they must be sent by 1st class mail. In addition, if a person to whom a notice must be sent owns multiple properties in the BID or NID, the municipality may fulfill its notice requirements by sending only one notice to the person. The notice must list all the affected properties or parcels owned by the person.

For further information see the local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
