Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Under current law, the Department of Justice is responsible for collecting and reporting certain types of crime data, including uniform crime reporting data requested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and law enforcement use of force data. This bill requires the department to collect specified additional data related to law enforcement officer suicides from state law enforcement agencies and to publish an annual report on the Internet. The department is required to design and implement a data collection system and provide instruction and outreach to law enforcement agencies in the submission of required data. The department estimates that the development of this system and the reporting functionality will cost $50,000 initially and $25,000 per year for licensing and maintenance, based on recent, comparable information technology projects. In addition, the design and implementation of the data collection, data validation and correction, data analysis, and design and implementation of reports will require 0.5 full-time equivalent (FTE) position initially and 0.10 FTE position on an ongoing basis. The costs of this data collection and reporting cannot be absorbed within existing resources as the department's data analysis staff are dedicated to specified projects supported by restrictive funding sources and cannot be reassigned to ineligible grant activities. This data collection may be duplicative of federal law enforcement suicide reporting implemented by the FBI on January 1, 2022, but the department could try to reduce duplicative reporting by coordinating with the federal initiative.

Under current law, the Department of Justice is required to support the functions of the Law Enforcement Standards Board, including establishing minimum curriculum requirements for law enforcement preparatory programs and recommending curriculum requirements for recertification and advanced courses and programs, and administer grants and reimbursement for law enforcement training programs. This bill requires the department to work cooperatively with the Department of Health Services and the Center for Suicide Awareness to establish a training curriculum designed to prevent suicides among law enforcement officers and issue an annual grant funded by a new GPR annual appropriation to the Center for Suicide Awareness to provide training based on this curriculum. The department can absorb the additional workload related to the non-competitive grant and the curriculum planning within existing resources. Because the curriculum for the suicide prevention training is to be determined, there may be a conflict paying the earmarked grant if the recipient organization does not have the qualifications to deliver the identified curriculum courses.
