Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill establishes privacy protections for judicial officers and a procedure for a judicial officer to complete a written request for protection of the personal information of the judicial officer and the judicial officer's immediate family.

Under the bill, a government agency may not publicly post or display publicly available content that includes a judicial officer's personal information, provided that the government agency has received a written request from the officer that the agency refrain from disclosing the personal information. Upon receipt of the written request, the agency must remove the personal information within 10 business days and may not publicly post or display the information. The personal information is also exempt from public records requests unless the agency has received consent to make the information available to the public.

The bill also provides that, upon receipt of a written request for privacy protections from a judicial officer, all persons, businesses, and associations must refrain from publicly posting or displaying on the Internet publicly available content that includes the personal information of the judicial officer or the judicial officer's immediate family. The prohibition does not apply to personal information that the judicial officer or an immediate family member of the judicial officer voluntarily publishes on the Internet after the bill goes into effect or personal information lawfully received from a state or federal government source, including from an employee or agent of the state or federal government.

After a person, business, or association has received a written request from a judicial officer, the person, business, or association must remove, within 10 business days, the publicly posted or displayed personal information identified in the request; ensure that the information is not publicly posted or displayed on any website or subsidiary website controlled by that person, business, or association; and identify any other publicly posted or displayed instances of the identified information that should be removed. Under the bill, once a written request is received, no person, business, or association may transfer the judicial officer's personal information to any other person, business, or association through any medium, except for personal information that the judicial officer or an immediate family member of the judicial officer voluntarily publishes on the Internet after the bill goes into effect, or if a transfer is made at the request of the judicial officer or is necessary to effectuate a request to the person, business, or association from the judicial officer.

The bill also expressly prohibits a data broker, as defined in the bill, from knowingly selling, licensing, trading, purchasing, or otherwise making available for consideration the personal information of a judicial officer or a judicial officer's immediate family, provided that the judicial officer has made a written request to the data broker. Under the bill, the data broker must cease knowingly selling, licensing, trading, purchasing, or otherwise making available personal information for consideration pursuant to the written request within 10 business days of the written request.

The bill requires the register of deeds to shield from disclosure and keep confidential certain documents covered by a judicial officer's written request for protection of personal information, if the documents to be protected are specifically identified by the judicial officer. The bill also requires that any provider of a public-facing land records website must establish a process for judicial officers and immediate family members of judicial officers to opt out from the display and search functions of their names on the provider's public-facing land records websites.

Under the bill, certain judicial officers may designate the director of state courts as the judicial officer's agent for purposes of service of process. If the director of state courts receives service of process, notice, or demand required or permitted by law to be served on a judicial officer who has designated the director of state courts as his or her agent, the director of state courts must forward the process, notice, or demand to the judicial officer's home address.

The bill also provides that a candidate for a judicial office may, instead of having his or her name and residential address listed on nomination papers, file a certification of residence with the Elections Commission before circulating nomination papers. A judicial officer circulating nomination papers on behalf of a candidate for a nonpartisan office, or signing nomination papers supporting a candidate for a nonpartisan office, may similarly file a certification of residence with the Elections Commission before circulating or signing nomination papers. The bill requires the commission, by rule, to verify the address provided in the certification of residence. Under current law, generally, a candidate for a state or local elective office must file nomination papers with the commission or, for a local office, with the appropriate municipal clerk. The top of each nomination paper must list the candidate's full name, including any nickname or former surname, and his or her residential street address. Under current law, a person circulating nomination papers on behalf of a candidate for a judicial office must also provide a certification at the bottom of each nomination paper stating his or her residential street address.

18 (c) A representative from the judicial officer's employer may submit a written 19 request on the judicial officer's behalf, provided that the judicial officer has given

3 and indicate that the personal information of these family members shall also be 4 excluded to the extent that it could reasonably be expected to reveal personal 5 information of the judicial officer. Any person receiving a written request form 6 submitted by or on behalf of a judicial officer under this paragraph shall treat the 7 submission as confidential.

8 (e) 1. A judicial officer's written request is valid for 10 years or until the judicial 9 officer's death, whichever occurs first.

18 business, or association with consent to release the personal information as provided 19 under subd. 3.

20 3. A judicial officer or immediate family member of the judicial officer may 21 consent to release personal information otherwise protected by a judicial officer's 22 written request if the consent is made in writing on a form prescribed by the director
23 of state courts. An immediate family member of the judicial officer may only consent 24 to the release of his or her own personal information.

1           4. A judicial officer under sub. (1) (e) 1. to 3., or 6. may designate the director 2 of state courts as the judicial officer’s agent for purposes of service of process, and if 3 the director of state courts receives service of process, notice, or demand required or 4 permitted by law to be served on a judicial officer who has designated the director 5 of state courts as his or her agent for purposes of service of process under this

8           (4m) (a) In this subsection, “land records website” means a public website that 9 allows users to search and retrieve a real estate property database or geographic 10 records.

11           (b) Any provider of a public-facing land records website shall establish a 12 process for judicial officers and immediate family members of judicial officers to opt 13 out from the display and search functions of their names on the provider’s 14 public-facing land records website.

15           (5) (a) A judicial officer whose personal information is made public as a result 16 of a violation of this section may bring an action seeking injunctive or declaratory
17 relief in any court of competent jurisdiction. Notwithstanding s. 814.04, if the court 18 grants injunctive or declaratory relief, the governmental agency, business, 19 association, data broker, or other person responsible for the violation shall be 20 required to pay the judicial officer’s costs and reasonable attorney fees.

21           (b) Provided that an employee of a government agency has complied with the 22 conditions set forth in sub. (2), it is not a violation of this section if an employee of 23 a government agency publishes personal information, in good faith, on the website 24 of the government agency in the ordinary course of carrying out public functions.
