2023 Senate Bill 829

Senate Amendment 1

BACKGROUND

State law allows certain licensed emergency medical service professionals to obtain a “tactical emergency medical services” (TEMS) endorsement from the Department of Health Services (DHS). A professional with a TEMS endorsement generally operates as part of a tactical team, defined as a paramilitary special operations tactical unit typically found in law enforcement or the military that responds to threats to public safety.

2023 SENATE BILL 829

2023 Senate Bill 829 creates exemptions from restrictions on the possession of a firearm in various places for TEMS professionals who have been certified by the Law Enforcement Standards Board (LESB), as provided under the bill, and are acting in the line of duty.

The bill defines a TEMS professional as a licensed emergency medical services professional who has been endorsed by DHS as a person who provides medical services when operating as part of a tactical team. To become certified, a TEMS professional must satisfactorily complete minimum training standards established by the LESB and be certified by LESB as being qualified to be a TEMS professional.

Additionally, for a TEMS professional to continue to be certified, he or she must maintain employment as a TEMS professional and meet the LESB’s annual recertification training standards, including completing a handgun qualification course from curricula based on model standards established by LESB under current law.

SENATE AMENDMENT 1

Senate Amendment 1 generally requires that a TEMS professional have the approval of the sheriff or chief of police for the jurisdiction in which the person is authorized to carry out his or her duties.

Specifically, Senate Amendment 1 adds to the definition of TEMS professional a condition that the person is operating with the prior approval of the sheriff or chief of police for the jurisdiction in which the person is authorized to carry out his or her duties. Likewise, under the amendment, no person may be certified as a TEMS professional without the prior written approval of the sheriff or chief of police for the jurisdiction in which the person is authorized to carry out his or her duties, and no person may continue to be certified as a TEMS professional unless the person maintains that approval.
