Description transferring adjudicatory functions for worker's compensation from the Division of Hearings and Appeals in the Department of Administration to the Department of Workforce Development

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

The bill transfers, from the Department of Administration (DOA) Division of Hearings and Appeals (DHA) to the Department of Workforce Development (DWD), the adjudicatory functions relating to disputed worker's compensation claims currently administered by DHA. Under the bill, the effective date of the transfer is January 1, 2026.

The estimated fiscal impact of this bill is a one-time cost of $72,000 which the department estimates can be absorbed.

Under this bill, the department assumes 37.5 FTE in position authority would be transferred from DHA to DWD on January 1, 2026. This is the position authority transferred from the department to DHA when adjudication functions were transferred under 2015 Act 55 and 2017 Act 59.

The bill does not modify budget authority for the department or DHA. Under current law, DWD reimburses DOA for DHA expenses related to disputed worker's compensation claims. These reimbursements cover the cost of staff salaries, fringe benefits and overhead costs, which include rent, IT costs, and other support service costs. Because adjudicatory service costs provided by DHA are already reimbursed by DWD, it is assumed that the budget authority in the appropriation at s. 20.445(1)(ra) is sufficient to cover the on-going expenses for adjudicatory services provided by DWD after the transfer.

The department would incur one-time costs associated with the transfer. Because staff are changing departments, new computers would need to be purchased for incumbents. Costs would also be incurred for IT set up, providing and activating phones if needed, and other miscellaneous supplies. These one-time costs are $72,000 using an estimated 36 incumbents based on the assumed 37.5 FTE to be transferred and accounting for a 3% vacancy rate.
