History: Cr. Register, October, 1971, No. 190, eff. 11-1-71.

Ag 1.16 Depositions and discovery. (1) The examiner on application of any party may by issuance of a subpoena or other appropriate order authorize the taking of a deposition of a party or any other person for discovery or other purposes, in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe. Such subpoenas or orders may require the production of documents or physical evidence. Depositions may be taken orally or in writing, or upon written interrogatories. Depositions may be authorized only for the purpose of obtaining information or evidence not otherwise readily available without the taking of a deposition, or which is reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. The taking of a deposition may be denied if it will result in undue delay of the proceedings. Upon motion of any party, or at any time the examiner determines, a proponent of procedures authorized in this section may be required to show good cause that such procedures are not being used for purposes of delay or are not otherwise unnecessary or duplicative.

(2) On application of any party, the examiner may require any other party to disclose the names and addresses of witnesses who will testify at the hearing and to produce for inspection or copying any documentary or physical evidence to be used as evidence at the hearing.

(3) Depositions may be taken before any person having power to administer oaths. Examinations shall be conducted as on direct examination, except that adverse parties or hostile witnesses may be examined as under cross examination.

(4) Depositions under this section may be used as evidence if otherwise admissible under the same circumstances in which they may be admitted in civil actions in courts of law.

(5) If any part of a deposition is put in evidence, any party may require the production of the remainder, or any other portion of the deposition. Depositions under this section may be used for impeachment purposes.

(6) Copies of all written interrogatories and cross interrogatories shall be submitted to the examiner. Each interrogatory shall be fully and completely answered in writing and under oath. Answers, including objections, if any, shall be submitted to the requesting party, with a copy to the examiner, within 10 days after service of the interrogatory, or such other period as the examiner may specify. The requesting party may move for an order overruling objections which are without merit and compelling an answer within such period of time as may be designated by the examiner.

(7) In lieu of or in addition to procedures under subsection (6), any party may serve upon any other party, with a copy to the examiner, a demand to admit or deny the genuineness of relevant documents or the existence or truthfulness of relevant facts. If the party upon whom demand is made fails or refuses to comply with the demand or file objections setting forth grounds for such objections within 10 days after service of the demand, the facts included in the demand shall be taken as true. Answers or objections shall be under oath. The party making the demand may move for an order overruling objections which are without merit, and compelling an admission or denial in accordance with the demand.

(8) Upon failure of the party served to answer as required under subsections (6) and (7), the examiner may, upon motion of the requesting party, enter such order as may be fair and just, including:

(a) An order that designated facts and documents shall be taken to be established in accordance with the claim of the party serving the demand to admit or deny

(b) An order refusing to allow the disobedient party to support or oppose designated claims or defenses, or prohibiting him from introducing designated matters in evidence.

A written transcript of the record shall be prepared only as deemed necessary by the department, and unless otherwise prepared by the department for its own use, shall not be prepared at the specific request of any person unless needed by such person for appeal or court review purposes, or other valid reasons.

(2) COPIES OF TRANSCRIPT; COST. If a transcript has been prepared by the department for its own use, copies may be furnished to all interested parties upon payment of a fee of 10 cents for each page. If no transcript of the record has been prepared by the department and a specific request for a transcript is made, the party making the request shall be responsible for all reasonable costs incurred by the department in transcribing the record and in preparation of the transcript. Any party who on basis of a verified petition can establish to the satisfaction of the department the need for a transcript and financial inability to pay for a copy thereof, may be furnished a copy free of cost.
