Fiscal Estimate & Economic Impact Analysis

The adoption assistance program is authorized under 42 USC 673 and Title IV-E of the Social Security Act. The program provides matching funds to states to facilitate the timely placement of children whose special needs or circumstances would otherwise make it difficult to place with adoptive families. Title IX authorizes Medicaid eligibility for children eligible under Title IV-E.

Under 45 CFR 1356.40 (f), the state Title IV-B/IV-E agency is required to actively seek ways to promote the adoption assistance program, including notifying prospective adoptive parents about the availability of adoption assistance for the adoption of a child with special needs.

Federal regulations at 45 CFR 1356.40 (b) (1) require that the adoption assistance agreement be signed and in effect at the time of, or prior to, the final decree of adoption. However, if the adoptive parents feel they wrongly have been denied benefits on behalf of an adoptive child, they have the right to a fair hearing.

42 USC 673 requires foster parents to be prepared adequately with appropriate knowledge and skills before a child is placed in their foster home and requires that the preparation be continued as necessary after the placement of the child. Under s. 48.833, Stats., a child is placed for adoption in a licensed foster home prior to adoption.

In intercountry adoptions, Department of State regulations at 22 CFR Part 96 require prospective adoptive parents to use a primary adoption services provider that is an accredited agency or approved person under the regulations and is responsible for ensuring that adoption services comply with the regulations.

Under 22 CFR 96.48, the accredited agency or approved person is required to provide prospective adoptive parents with at least 10 hours of training on issues related to intercountry adoptions before they travel to adopt a child or a child is placed with the prospective adoptive parents for adoption. The agency or person can exempt prospective adoptive parents from all or part of the training if the department or person determines that the prospective adoptive parents have received adequate prior training or have prior experience as parents of children adopted from abroad.

The Department of State regulations have applied to all adoptions of a foreign child by a U.S. citizen since July 14, 2014, when The Intercountry Adoption Universal Accreditation Act of 2012 (UAA) went into effect. The UAA assures families pursuing an intercountry adoption that regardless of the country from which they intend to adopt, the adoption services provider will need to comply with the same ethical standards of practice and conduct. From July 1, 2008, to July 13, 2014, the Department of State regulations only applied to adoption services provided for a U.S. prospective adoptive parent if the child resided in a country that was a party to the Hague Convention on Protection of Children and Cooperation in Respect of Intercountry Adoption. The Hague Convention is a multilateral treaty that entered into force in the U.S. on July 1, 2008.

Proposed changes to the Department of State rules on intercountry adoptions were published in the Federal Register on September 8, 2016. On April 4, 2017, the Department of State withdrew the proposed rules and announced that it will be drafting new rules that are expected to be published later this year.

In addition, regulations promulgated by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services provide that prospective adoptive parents who intend to bring a foreign child to the U.S. for adoption must complete any preadoption training required by their state of residence before the child's immigration petition will be approved. 8 CFR 204.305
