AN ACT to create section 1492ab—1, and to amend section 4605 of the statutes, relating to the raising of healthy calves from tubercular cattle on quarantine farms; and providing penalties.

The people of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. There is added to the statutes a new section to read: Section 1492ab—1. 1. Individual owners or companies may, upon application, be authorized by the state live stock sanitary board to establish quarantine farms for the purpose of raising healthy calves from tubercular cattle, under the Bang system, in conformation with such rules and regulations as may be established by the state live stock sanitary board for the maintenance of such quarantine farms.

2. The state live stock sanitary board shall establish such rules and regulations as in the judgment of the members thereof are necessary for the proper conduct of such quarantine farms.

SECTION 2. Section 4605 of the statutes is amended to read: Section 4605. 1. Any person who shall remove or allow the removal of any domestic animal which has been quarantined by any board of health or health officer, without written permission so to do from the board or officer by whom the quarantine was declared or from the state veterinarian, or who shall remove or allow the removal from premises quarantined by said veterinarian, or from any locality quarantined by proclamation of the governor, of any such animal of the kind diseased or of any other kind susceptible to the contagious or infectious disease prevailing on such premises or in such locality, without written permission from the state veterinarian, shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment at hard labor in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than one year.

2. Any person who shall knowingly bring into this state any domestic animal afflicted with or suspected to be afflicted with, or that has been exposed to, any contagious or infectious disease, or who shall, after the governor has issued a proclamation designating any locality or localities without this state from which the importation of such animals into this state is prohibited, receive in charge any animal from such locality or either of them and transport or convey the same to any point within this state shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars, or by imprisonment at hard labor in the county jail not less than six months nor more than two years.

3. Any person knowing or having reason to suspect that there is upon his premises or upon any premises over which he has control, whether as agent or otherwise, any domestic animal afflicted with a contagious or infectious disease who shall fail to immediately report the fact to the local board of health or some member thereof, or attempt to conceal the existence of such disease on such premises, or permit any animal afflicted therewith to run at large or come in contact with other animals susceptible to such disease, or resist or obstruct the state veterinarian in the performance of his duty, or sell, offer for sale, give away or in any manner part with the possession of any such animal, or any animal that has been exposed to and is susceptible to any such contagious or infectious disease, shall be punished as first provided in this section; except that the ownership of tubercular cattle to be used on quarantine premises, as provided in section 1492ab—1, may be transferred to the owner of such quarantine premises by action of the state live stock sanitary board, at a regular meeting of such board, upon joint application of the owner of the cattle and the owner of such quarantine premises.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.
